

To:
cc:
Subject: The Proposal of Article 23 of Basic Law in Hong Kong

2002/12/20 07:55 PM

To whom it may concern:
Hong Kong, China

Re: The Proposal of Article 23 of Basic Law in Hong Kong

Dear Sir/Madam,

We fully understand your situation which are under pressure from mainland China and hastily tried to implement the Proposal of Article 23 of Basic Law in Hong Kong. I believe it is neither your choice of selection for your citizens to follows.

The current so-called "anti-subversion law" is neither necessary nor appropriate. We believe the Hong Kong good reputation business, tourism, finance hub is at stake and can be ruined in no time when foreigners find it harder to establish a better prospective and a good business environment. Many countries observed that it is restricting the freedom of speech and assembly, basic human-rights and abuse of international human-rights. which are against the will of the people.

Most common law are to protect the citizens rights and not being abuse. Under the pretense of protecting national security, the consultation document proposes to allow the police more power so they can enter and search private dwellings and investigate financial records in a state of emergency. This kind of act which occurred in mainland China by ransack homes of innocent, kind-nature of Falun Gong practitioners and arrest people without proper legal procedures. Under this proposal, this may also happen in Hong Kong. The people in the world witnessed that it's cruel intention of persecution in mainland China in-human torture against the kind, innocent Falun Gong practitioners which caused 531 deaths under police custody. This should not happen at all.

Note: Falun Dafa is Good!

Under such a situation scenario, I strongly against the Proposal of Article 23 of Basic Law in Hong Kong and it should not be implemented at all. It would not gain support by your local citizens and acceptable by the people worldwide.

We encouraged the Hong Kong SAR government have a sense of understanding and urgency not to implement Proposal of Article 23 of Basic Law in Hong Kong. The people of Hong Kong should not live in fear. We strongly oppose any measures in which "national interest" or "security" may be used as a pretense to attack innocent people.

References:

Your Sincerely,

Phay Yiu Chuang