3. Civil service disciplinary mechanism and procedures

At the Panel meeting on 9 October 2003, Mr Albert CHAN referred to recent judicial review cases in which the court ruled in favour of the civil servants who launched the judicial review against the Government in respect of its decisions on disciplinary punishment. Mr CHAN considered that the Civil Service Bureau (CSB) should review the civil service disciplinary policies and procedures in the light of the court judgement to rectify any deficiencies of the existing policies and procedures. He suggested that CSB be invited to brief the Panel on the subject and to provide the following information:
