The Administration's response to issues raised at the meeting held on 27 March 2008

- Admin 3. The Administration was requested to provide the following information :
- (a) possible ways in respect of the legal framework and procedural arrangements to spell out clearly the legislative intent and identify the legal responsibilities of various parties that might be involved in the carrying out of minor works under various possible scenarios;
 - (b) scenarios under which a building owner would discharge his duties stipulated in new sections 4A and 9AA for the appointment of qualified persons to commence or carry out minor works and hence would not be deemed as knowingly contravening the BO, with reference to similar provisions in other legislation and case law; and
 - (c) response to members' view that the Administration should delete the proposed term of imprisonment imposed on the person for whom minor works were to be carried out, in particular building owners, for non-compliance of the proposed minor works control system under Class III, taking into account the nature and gravity of the offence.

Clause-by-clause examination of the Bill

- Admin 4. The Administration undertook to :
- (a) consider adding "但" before "第 4A(1)及 9AA(1)條已獲符合" in the Chinese version of the new section 14AA; and
 - (b) consider simplifying the drafting of the new section 24AA relating to the specification of persons to whom orders for demolition, removal, or alteration of minor works commenced under the simplified requirements would be served.

000125 – 010440	Chairman Administration Mr James TO Ms Miriam LAU Prof Patrick LAU Ms Audrey EU Assistant Legal Adviser 4 (ALA) Ir Dr Raymond HO	The Administration's response to issues raised at the meeting on 27 March 2008 (LC Paper No. CB(1)1179/07-08(01)) (a) In response to members' queries, the Administration advised that new sections 4A and 9AA of the Bill did not specify building owner as the person for whom minor works were to be commenced or carried out. In other words, if an agent (such as a property management company commissioned by the co-owners of a building to carry out repair works for the common parts or an air-conditioning retailer providing installation service of the air-conditioners), on behalf of a building owner or tenant, directly appointed qualified persons to commence or carry out the minor works, he had a role under the Buildings Ordinance (Cap. 123) (BO) as the party for which minor works were to be commenced or carried out. In identifying the person(s) who was responsible for making the appointment under new sections 4A or 9AA for enforcement or prosecution, the Building Authority (BA) would gather evidence such as the specified forms notifying BA of the appointment and commencement/completion of the minor works. Offences for knowingly contravening new sections 4A and 9AA were stipulated in the new section 40(1AB) of the Bill. As regards RMWCs, the penalties for non-compliance with the minor works control system were stipulated in proposed sections 40(2E) and (2F). (b) Discussion on the practical difficulties in identifying the person for whom minor works were to be commenced or carried out under new sections 4A and 9AA of the Bill. ALA suggested that an additional identifier, such as a signatory, might help draw conclusive evidence for the purpose of carrying out the

		provisions of the Bill. Prof Patrick LAU suggested that permission might be given to RMWCs only to sign specified forms relating to minor works. Ir Dr Raymond HO considered that building owners should not be held accountable for not complying with the proposed minor works control system. He raised that if accidents occurred during the course of works implementation of Class III minor works, the RMWC concerned might try to evade their legal liabilities by not reporting the relevant minor works project to the BA. Ms Miriam LAU doubted that the current drafting of the Bill did not adequately reflect the legislative intent. She also reminded the Administration to fully inform all affected parties, such as the air-conditioner retailers who had a role to directly appoint qualified persons to install supporting frames for air-conditioners, before the commencement of the proposed minor works control system. (c) The Administration advised that it would review the legal framework and procedural arrangements with a view to clarifying the legislative intent relating to the legal responsibilities of various parties that might be involved in the carrying out of minor works, namely the owner or tenant of a premises, the agent, the registered professional/contractor and the workers employed by contractors, under various possible scenarios. Extensive publicity and public education would be conducted after passage of the Bill. In fact, the Administration had consulted the air-conditioning industry on their views on the implications of the proposed minor works control system. (d) Ms Audrey EU opined that to uphold the integrity of the policy to regulate building works that were minor in scale, the building owner(s) concerned should be regarded as the person(s) for whom minor works were to be commenced or carried out and required to comply with the BO. However, if they had made reasonable acts to discharge their duties, they should not be deemed as knowingly contravening the BO.	The Administration to take action as stated in paragraph 3(a) of the minutes The Administration to take action as stated in paragraph 3(b) of the minutes

		(e) In response to Ms Miriam LAU's enquiry, the Administration advised that RMWCs might be required to present their registration certificates for identification of their eligibility for carrying out minor works. Consideration would be given to requiring them to specify their registered Class, minor works items and registration number in their promotion materials. (f) The Chairman opined that the Administration should lift the proposed term of imprisonment to be imposed on the person for whom minor works were to be carried out, in particular building owners, for non-compliance of the proposed minor works control system under Class III, taking into account the nature and gravity of the offence.	The Administration to take action as stated in paragraph 3(c) of the minutes
