Programme: (2) Operations

Controlling Officer: Commissioner, Independent Commission Against Corruption

Director of Bureau: Commissioner, Independent Commission Against Corruption

Question: In the last three years, did ICAC conduct any surprise inspection on the expenditure under Subhead 103 'Rewards and Special Services' to ensure its use was reasonable and in compliance with the procedures? If affirmative, what were the ranks of the inspecting officers and how many inspections were conducted? If not, what are the justifications and is there any plan to conduct surprise inspections in the future?

Asked by: Hon. TO Kun-sun, James

Reply: The ICAC exercises strict control over the expenditure under Subhead 103 'Rewards and Special Services'. All claims under the Subhead are scrutinized by senior officers. Apart from the inspections carried out by the Director of Audit, the Commissioner, the Director of Operations and the Assistant Director (Administration) also conduct surprise inspections on the accounts under this Subhead. In the last three years, nine, eight and seven surprise inspections were respectively conducted, with no anomalies found.

Question: Please provide a detailed list of the work undertaken by the Technical Services Division in 2007-08, including the types of support services it has provided.

Asked by: Hon. TO Kun-sun, James

Reply: The main role of the Technical Services Division is to provide technical support to the Operations Department of the ICAC in the investigation of corruption. To disclose details of its work will inevitably compromise the efficiency and effectiveness of the ICAC investigative work. It is hence not in the public interest to disclose such details.

Question: The Corruption Prevention Department has reduced its target of completed assignment reports from 95 to 88 as resources will be re-deployed for strengthening assistance to clients in implementing recommendations made in assignment reports. Please advise the number and names of companies that require its assistance in implementing the corruption prevention recommendations and the resources required in this respect (including the number of staff and provisions).

Asked by: Hon. NG Margaret

Reply: Corruption Prevention Department (CPD) follows up with client organizations after completion of assignment reports to help them implement recommendations contained in the reports. In view of the trend that many of the recommendations have become more complex and carried greater impact in the coming years, CPD plans to step up its assistance provided to client organizations in the implementation of recommendations. CPD would strengthen its discussions and negotiations with departmental management on issues related to the implementation of recommendations, conduct more departmental training workshops to enhance frontline staff's awareness on corruption prevention and to promulgate best practice, and organize civil service-wide workshops or seminars.

CPD will undertake this initiative through internal redeployment and the number of assignment reports to be completed in 2008 has been slightly adjusted downward.

Question: Has the Corruption Prevention Department reserved any resources for the 2008 LegCo Election to organise seminars or other activities for the candidates and their election agents to heighten their corruption prevention awareness and their understanding of the Elections (Corrupt and Illegal Conduct) Ordinance?

Asked by: Hon. NG Margaret

Reply: Raising public awareness of and enlisting community support for clean elections come under the ambit of ICAC's Community Relations Department. We have already planned for a comprehensive education and publicity campaign targeting mainly at the candidates, election agents, helpers and voters for the 2008 LegCo Election, which embraces the following –

- (i) Producing an information folder to help candidates and election agents understand the Elections (Corrupt and Illegal Conduct) Ordinance (ECICO);
- (ii) Fielding speakers for briefings organised by the Electoral Affairs Commission to explain to candidates and election agents the ECICO;
- (iii) Liaising with major political parties and groups to offer election-related corruption preventive services to their members;
- (iv) Approaching relevant professional bodies, business organisations and related organisations of the functional constituencies to offer election-related corruption preventive services and explain the ECICO;
- (v) Conducting briefings for residents' associations, including owners' corporations and mutual aid committees, to remind them of the points-to-note in organising and participating in election activities;
- (vi) Producing a "dos and don'ts" leaflet for voters;
- (vii) Promoting the "Support Clean Elections" message through different media (such as bus advertisement, television and radio API, posters and a dedicated website), roving exhibitions and quizzes; and
- (viii) Operating an election hotline starting from 1 April 2008 to facilitate public enquiries.

The estimated expenditure is about $2 million and it will be met by the Administration.
