Motion debate on “Formulating a comprehensive elderly policy” to be held at the Legislative Council meeting of Wednesday, 14 January 2009

1. Hon CHEUNG Kwok-che’s original motion

That, given the trend of an ageing population, the Government estimates that elderly people aged 65 and above in 2036 will constitute 27% of the total population and amount to over two million; as the services in areas such as welfare, housing, medical and health care as well as life development currently provided by the Government for the elderly are insufficient to cater for the overall needs of the elderly in various aspects, coupled with the fact that at present the majority of the elderly people do not have full retirement protection, this Council urges the Government to consolidate the various existing elderly services and coordinate the relevant bureaux and executive departments to formulate a comprehensive and forward-looking elderly policy which, apart from catering for their physical and psychological needs, provides the elderly with more opportunities to enable them to actively participate in social building and continue to contribute to the community, so as to provide “golden twilight years” for the increasingly sizeable elderly population.

2. Motion as amended by Hon TAM Yiu-chung

~~That, given the trend of an ageing population,~~ the Government estimates that elderly people aged 65 and above in 2036 will constitute 27% of the total population and amount to over two million; ~~as~~ however, the services in areas such as welfare, housing, medical and health care as well as life development currently provided by the Government for the elderly are insufficient to cater for the ~~overall~~ needs of the elderly in various aspects, coupled with the fact that at present the majority of the elderly people do not have full retirement protection, rendering it unable to cope with the trend of an ageing population, this Council urges the Government to consolidate the various existing elderly services and coordinate the relevant bureaux and executive departments to formulate a comprehensive and forward-looking elderly policy which; ~~apart from catering~~ includes:

3. Motion as amended by Hon WONG Kwok-hing

That “giving the elderly a sense of belonging, a sense of security, a sense of worthiness and a sense of being useful” is the goal of a healthy community, given the trend of an ageing population in Hong Kong, the Government estimates that elderly people aged 65 and above in 2036 will constitute 27% of the total population and amount to over two million; as the services in areas such as welfare, housing, transport, community education, medical and health care, community nursing, residential care home services, hospice care services as well as life development currently provided by the Government for the elderly are insufficient to cater for the overall needs of the elderly in various aspects, coupled with the fact that at present the majority of the elderly people do not have full retirement protection, and the existing Mandatory Provident Fund system fails to provide the elderly with a dignified retirement life, this Council urges the Government to heed the views of the elderly, consolidate the various existing elderly services and coordinate the relevant bureaux and executive departments to formulate a comprehensive and forward-looking elderly policy which, apart from catering for their physical and psychological needs, provides the elderly with more opportunities to ~~enable~~ facilitate them to actively participate in social building and continue to contribute to the community, so as to provide “golden twilight years” for the increasingly sizeable elderly population; such a comprehensive elderly policy should basically cover the following:

- (a) conducting extensive consultation on the elderly policy by comprehensively collecting the views of the elderly, deputations and service organizations, and formulating a comprehensive and forward-looking elderly policy, improvement measures and implementation timetable on the basis of such consultation;*
- (b) drawing up an integrated retirement protection plan to benefit all the people of Hong Kong;*
- (c) launching various measures to encourage children to live with their elderly parents, such as expanding the schemes to foster harmonious families in public rental housing and providing home purchase assistance and loan schemes, etc, so as to advocate the spirit of respecting and caring for the elderly;*
- (d) comprehensively improving the medical and healthcare services for the elderly, alleviating their burden of medical expenses, and reducing the waiting time for specialist services and residential care home places for the elderly;*
- (e) providing the elderly with comprehensive fare concessions for all types of transport;*
- (f) comprehensively improving the existing Old Age Allowance system and removing the unnecessary restrictions;*
- (g) reviewing the system for granting Comprehensive Social Security Assistance (“CSSA”) to the elderly, relaxing the requirement for elderly persons to apply for CSSA on a household basis, and ensuring that CSSA and allowances can meet the basic needs of the elderly;*
- (h) providing all-round and diversified continuous learning and community education for the elderly, and fully utilizing their strengths to contribute to the community;*

- (i) allocating additional resources to improve elderly services at the community level, including increasing the number of elderly centres across the territory, increasing the places for the Integrated Home Care Services, and providing diversified district services;
- (j) studying the provision of comprehensive financial planning, management and services for the elderly; and
- (k) formulating comprehensive, proactive and forward-looking hospice care services.

Note: Hon WONG Kwok-hing's amendment is marked in bold and italic type or with deletion line.

4. Motion as amended by Hon WONG Sing-chi

That, ~~given the trend of an ageing population~~ with the post war baby boom generation advancing into old age, the population will start to age rapidly within the next few years, the Government estimates that elderly people aged 65 and above in 2036 will constitute 27% of the total population and amount to over two million; as the services in areas such as welfare, housing, planning, community facilities, medical and health care as well as life development currently provided by the Government for the elderly are insufficient to cater for the overall needs of the elderly in various aspects, and it is doubtful whether welfare, medical and healthcare services, etc are sustainable in the long run given an ageing population, coupled with the fact that at present the majority of the elderly people do not have full retirement protection, and the policies and services concerning retirement and employment fail to take into account those elderly persons who wish to continue to work, this Council urges the Government to ~~consolidate the various existing elderly services and coordinate the relevant bureaux and executive departments to formulate a comprehensive and forward-looking elderly policy~~ adopt the following strategic measures which, apart from catering for their physical and psychological needs, provides the elderly with more opportunities to enable them to actively participate in social building and continue to contribute to the community, so as to provide "golden twilight years" for the increasingly sizeable elderly population:

- (a) setting up an "Old Age Reserve Fund" to ensure that there is sufficient public expenditure to maintain various welfare benefits and services for the elderly when the population is aged after 2011;
- (b) reviewing the retirement and employment policies and services, and legislating against age discrimination to safeguard equal employment opportunities for the aged population;

- (c) revamping the healthcare financing and retirement protection systems to ensure the long-term sustainability of welfare benefits and public services relating to the elderly; and
- (d) consolidating the various existing elderly services and coordinating the relevant bureaux and executive departments to formulate a comprehensive and forward-looking elderly policy.

Note: Hon WONG Sing-chi's amendment is marked in bold and italic type or with deletion line.

5. Motion as amended by Frederick FUNG Kin-kee

That, ~~given as Hong Kong has all along lacked a long-term elderly policy and the trend of an ageing population, the Government estimates~~ persists, it is estimated that elderly people aged 65 and above in 2036 will constitute 27% of the total population and amount to over two million; as the services in areas such as welfare, housing, medical and health care as well as life development currently provided by the Government for the elderly are insufficient to cater for the overall needs of the elderly in various aspects, coupled with the fact that at present the majority of the elderly people do not have full retirement protection, this Council urges the Government to consolidate the various existing elderly services and coordinate the relevant bureaux and executive departments to formulate a comprehensive and forward-looking elderly policy ~~which~~, as well as to expeditiously implement the recommendations made by the Legislative Council Subcommittee to Study the Subject of Combating Poverty in its Report on Elderly in Poverty and the recommendations on elderly issues put forward in the Report of the Commission on Poverty, so that apart from catering for their physical and psychological needs, ~~provides~~ the elderly are also provided with more opportunities to enable them to actively participate in social building and continue to contribute to the community, so as to provide "golden twilight years" for the increasingly sizeable elderly population.
