Subhead 102 Non-means-tested loan scheme

Subhead 103 Means-tested loan for post-secondary students

Members are invited to approve extension of the application period of the existing one-off relief arrangement concerning deferment of student loan repayment for one year until 31 July 2012.

PROBLEM

The application period of the existing one-off relief arrangement concerning deferment of student loan repayment would expire on 31 July 2011. To relieve the repayment burden of student loan borrowers with proven repayment difficulties, we propose to extend the application period of the arrangement for one year till 31 July 2012.

PROPOSAL

2. The Controller of the Student Financial Assistance Agency, with the support of the Secretary for Education, proposes to extend the application period of the existing one-off relief arrangement concerning deferment of student loan repayment for means-tested and non-means-tested loan borrowers with proven repayment difficulties for one year till 31 July 2012, which comprises –

- (a) an extension of the total loan repayment period for needy means-tested and non-means-tested loan borrowers by up to a maximum of two years; and
- (b) a waiver of the interest during the approved deferment period for needy non-means-tested loan borrowers for a maximum of two years.

JUSTIFICATION

Background

3. At present, full-time students pursuing publicly-funded and self-financing, locally-accredited post-secondary programmes can apply for means-tested grants to help cover tuition fees and academic expenses as well as low-interest loans to help meet living expenses under the Tertiary Student Finance Scheme – Publicly-funded Programmes (TSFS) and the Financial Assistance Scheme for Post-secondary Students (FASP) administered by the Student Financial Assistance Agency (SFAA) respectively. Students who wish to take out means-tested loans under the two schemes have to sign an undertaking with SFAA to repay the loan in 20 equal quarterly instalments over five years upon completion or cessation of their studies. In some cases of hardship, the repayment period may be extended to up to 10 years.

4. Students pursuing programmes covered by TSFS and FASP can also apply to SFAA for non-means-tested loans¹ if they do not want to or fail to go through the means test of the two schemes. Students pursuing other continuing and professional education programmes can also apply for non-means-tested loans to help meet tuition fees under the Extended Non-means-tested Loan Scheme. Borrowers of non-means-tested loans have to repay the loan in 40 equal quarterly instalments over 10 years upon completion or cessation of studies.

Deferment of Student Loan Repayment

5. SFAA has put in place a deferment mechanism, under which individual loan borrowers who are unable to repay their loan on grounds of financial hardship, pursuing further studies or serious illness may apply to SFAA for assistance. SFAA will, on the basis of merits of individual cases, approve applications for deferment of loan repayment. Whilst interest is not charged on means-tested loans during the approved deferment period, interest will be accrued during the approved deferment period for non-means-tested loans, as the non-means-tested loan schemes operate on a no-gain-no-loss and full-cost-recovery basis². Loan borrowers have to repay their loan balance in the remainder of the 5-year/10-year repayment period, at a higher amount per instalment.

/assistance

¹ Students pursuing programmes covered by TSFS can apply for non-means-tested loans under the Non-means-tested Loan Scheme for Full-time Tertiary Students and the loan ceiling is the tuition fee payable. Students pursuing programmes covered by FASP can apply for non-means-tested loans under the Non-means-tested Loan Scheme for Post-secondary Students to help meet tuition fees, academic expenses and living expenses.

One-off Relief Arrangement relating to Student Loan Repayment

6. In May 2009, the Financial Secretary announced, amongst other one-off relief measures in response to the economic downturn in 2008, to allow student loan borrowers who have proven repayment difficulties owing to financial hardship, pursuing further studies or serious illness to defer repayment of their loan without interest being charged during the approved deferment period subject to a maximum of two years. The entire loan repayment period can also be extended for a maximum of two years. The application period for this one-off relief arrangement is to last for two years from 1 August 2009 to 31 July 2011.

7. Following the implementation of the relief measure in August 2009, the number of deferment applications has increased considerably. In the 2009/10 academic year, the total number of applications received was around 10 500, representing an increase of 23% as compared with the some 8 500 applications received in the 2008/09 academic year. Over 9 500 applications had been approved under the relief measure at an approval rate of 84%, and the total interest waived and interest income foregone arising from these approved applications is estimated to be $60.5 million. The one-off relief arrangement has relieved the repayment burden of a substantial number of students.

8. During the two-year application period, loan borrowers who apply for deferment and whose requests for deferment are subsequently approved by SFAA will be eligible for deferment from the quarterly instalment following the date of application. Since interest in a quarterly instalment is due on the first day of the following quarter, the interest-free period for approved deferment cases could in effect commence as early as from 1 July 2009.

/Proposed

² Non-means-tested loan borrowers are not subject to any means test and the loans are unsecured. To ensure the proper use of public money, the Finance Committee (FC) of the Legislative Council approved that these schemes operate on a no-gain-no-loss and full-cost-recovery basis. Interest will be charged on the loan once the loan is drawn down. The prevailing interest rate (with effect from 1 June 2011) is 3.174% per annum.

Proposed Extension of One-off Relief Arrangement

9. The application period of the existing one-off relief arrangement will expire on 31 July 2011. To alleviate the financial burden of student loan borrowers who encounter genuine difficulty in making repayments, in particular those who will graduate and enter the employment market this summer, we propose to extend the application period of the existing one-off relief arrangement for one year until 31 July 2012. With this extension, student loan borrowers with proven repayment difficulty would be able to defer repayment of their loan without interest being charged during the approved deferment period up to a maximum of two years, provided that they apply for deferment on or before 31 July 2012. The entire loan repayment period can also be extended up to a maximum of two years.

10. We are conducting a review of the operation of the non-means-tested loan schemes administered by SFAA. Phase 1 public consultation to collect public's views on the loan schemes ended last year, and we plan to launch Phase 2 public consultation to seek public views later this year on our specific proposals to improve the operation of the non-means-tested loan schemes, including those relating to loan repayment arrangements and deferment arrangements. We will also consult the Legislative Council Panel on Education on these proposals. Depending on the results of the Phase 2 public consultation, we plan to implement the proposals from the 2012/13 academic year onwards. The proposed extension of the application period of this relief measure for deferment of loan repayment for one year until 31 July 2012 would tie in with the planned implementation of the proposed improvements as a result of this review.

Estimated Number of Beneficiaries

11. The proposal would benefit existing student loan borrowers who have proven repayment difficulty and have yet to receive the full benefits (cumulative maximum of two years' interest-free deferment and extension of loan repayment period) under the existing one-off relief measure, as well as those who will complete their studies and have to start repayment after end-July 2011. In the 2009/10 academic year, SFAA approved over 9 500 deferment applications at an approval rate of 84%. A breakdown of the approved deferment cases by reason and by scheme in the 2009/10 academic year as compared with the previous two academic years is at Enclosure. We estimate that a similar number of student loan borrowers involving around 9 500 applications will benefit from the proposal during the extended one-year application period.

Encl.

12. For means-tested loan borrowers who have been approved deferment of loan repayment, they may re-apply for deferment in case of need on or before 31 July 2012 in order to benefit from extension of the loan repayment period, subject to a cumulative maximum of two years. For non-means-tested loan borrowers who have been approved deferment of loan repayment, they may also re-apply for deferment upon expiry of their previously approved deferment period in case of need on or before 31 July 2012. However, the total interest-free period and the total extension of the loan repayment period for each case will be subject to a cumulative maximum of two years.

FINANCIAL IMPLICATIONS

13. The estimated financial implications comprise both the waived interest which should otherwise be charged on the outstanding loan balance of approved deferment cases of non-means-tested loans, as well as interest income forgone³ in respect of both means-tested and non-means-tested loans due to an extension of the repayment period of the deferred loans. Based on the number of approved deferment cases in the 2009/10 academic year, i.e. around 9 500 applications, the estimated amount of interest waived and the estimated amount of interest income forgone due to the extension of the application period of the one-off relief arrangement for one year are around $41.2 million⁴ and $14.6 million⁵ respectively in the 2011/12 academic year. There are no other recurrent financial implications arising from this proposal.

14. SFAA has employed 20 additional non civil service contract staff to implement the existing one-off relief arrangement. These additional staff will continue to be required during the extended one-year application period, involving an amount of $2.8 million⁶. The additional expenditure will be absorbed within SFAA's own resources.

/IMPLEMENTATION

³ Interest income forgone refers to the loss in time value of the loan due to deferment of loan repayment. Calculation of interest income forgone is based on the difference of the Net Present Values between the cash flow repayment schedules with and without deferment.

⁴ Interest to be waived for non-means-tested loans is computed by applying the prevailing interest rate (i.e. 3.174% per annum). This rate will be adjusted in accordance with the movement of the average best lending rate of note-issuing banks and the outcome of the biennial review of the no-gain-no-loss interest rate.

⁶ Calculation is based on the actual salary standard for non civil service contract staff in SFAA as at January 2011.

IMPLEMENTATION PLAN

15. Subject to the funding approval of the FC, we plan to extend the application period of the existing one-off relief arrangement relating to deferment of student loan repayment upon its expiry on 31 July 2011 for one year, i.e. until 31 July 2012.

PUBLIC CONSULTATION

16. We consulted the Legislative Council Panel on Education on the proposal on 13 June 2011. Members were supportive of the proposal.

BACKGROUND

17. To counter the financial crisis and help the community tide over the difficulties, the Financial Secretary announced a basket of relief measures in May 2009, including a one-off arrangement to allow student loan borrowers with proven repayment difficulty to extend the repayment period and without interest being charged during the approved deferment period up to a maximum of two years. The application period for this one-off relief arrangement was to last for two years from 1 August 2009 to 31 July 2011.
