The Legislative Council (LegCo) has organized for the first time a series of exhibitions and career talks in three local universities, of which the first stop of this series of exhibitions and talks held at the Chinese University of Hong Kong (CUHK), which lasted for five days, was successfully concluded today (February 25). The exhibition has attracted a total of around 2,000 visitors, while more than 70 students attended the career talk. The above picture shows students taking a look at the exhibition panels displayed in CUHK's campus to gain a better understanding of the work of LegCo and the LegCo Secretariat.

The LegCo Secretariat conducts the first career talk in CUHK to introduce to students the job opportunities in the Secretariat to assist them in planning their career development. Students attending the career talk are interested in the job nature of major ranks and career prospects in the Secretariat.

After the career talk, an onsite recruitment exercise is conducted for the posts of two newly created ranks in the Secretariat, namely Educator and Visitors Service Assistant. The two new posts are tasked with providing a series of new services to visitors during their visits to new LegCo Complex at Tamar, which is scheduled to commence operation by late 2011. Students have keen interest in the two new posts and are eager to obtain more information from staff of the LegCo Secretariat about how to apply the jobs.

End/Friday, February 25, 2011
