Dear Sir,

Whilst I can appreciate the beneficial effects of having a speed camera sited appropriately I would ask you to question the relevant authority on the need for 4 separate speed cameras on the same length of road and direction, all within a 1 km distance. This seems prima facie a complete waste of taxpayer money on a safe 80 kph highway southbound on the Tsing Long highway towards the Cheung Tsing tunnel, with the first camera at the south end of the Ting Kau bridge. Or are three of these dummies ? I can see no sensible reason for this abuse of funds. (p.s. I was not caught by any camera)

Yours faithfully,

James Middleton
