

FACT SHEET

Major sources of Government revenue

1. Sources of Government revenue

1.1 Government revenue is the aggregate of operating revenue¹ and capital revenue². In the Financial Year ("FY") 2012-2013, the Government revenue amounted to HK$442.2 billion (see Table 1). The five major revenue items were profits tax (28.4%), land premium (15.7%), salaries tax (11.4%), stamp duties (9.7%) and investment income³ (8.5%), which together accounted for 73.7% of the Government revenue (see Table 2).

¹ The operating revenue comprises all revenue credited to the General Revenue Account (except those items which are treated as capital revenue such as loan repayments received) and the Land Fund. Major types of tax and their corresponding rates applicable in FY2013-2014 are set out in Table 3.

² The capital revenue consists of certain revenue items in the General Revenue Account and all receipts credited to the following seven Funds: the Capital Works Reserve Fund, the Capital Investment Fund, the Civil Service Pension Reserve Fund, the Disaster Relief Fund, the Innovation and Technology Fund, the Loan Fund and the Lotteries Fund.

³ Investment income refers to the investment return of the Government's fiscal reserves placed with the Exchange Fund, which is managed by the Hong Kong Monetary Authority under the delegated authority of the Financial Secretary.

Note: (1) The Stamp Duty (Amendment) Bill 2013 was introduced into the Legislative Council in April 2013 in an effort to cool down the property market. The Bill proposes, among other things, to increase the stamp duty rates for residential and non-residential property transactions valued at HK$2 million or below from HK$100 to 1.5% effective from 23 February 2013. For transactions valued over HK$2 million, stamp duty rates are doubled to as much as 8.5%. The new rates do not apply to Hong Kong permanent resident buyers acquiring residential properties, if these buyers: (a) act on their own behalf; and (b) are not beneficial owners of any other residential property in Hong Kong at the time of acquisition. A Bills Committee has been formed to examine the Bill.

Total	65,545⁽³⁾ (100%)	84,644 (100%)	69,563 (100%)	69,000⁽⁴⁾

Notes: (1) Figures in brackets represent percentage share of the total land premium.

(2) Government leases, under which all private properties in Hong Kong are held, usually contain restrictions to the use of land and buildings. Nevertheless, a leaseholder may apply for a short term waiver from the Lands Department to temporarily relax the restriction(s) under the lease. If the waiver application is approved, the Government will require the leaseholder to pay a fee reflecting the enhanced value of the property for the waiver period.

(3) Individual figures may not add up to the total due to rounding.

(4) The Government only provides the estimate for the total land premium receivable in FY2013-2014 in view of the market-driven nature of the land sales. The total land premium for FY2013-2014 is estimated having regard to the overall performance of the property market under the past and current market conditions. The amount is estimated to be at around the same level receivable in FY2012-2013.
