Issues relating to the Producers' Guidelines of Radio Television Hong Kong

Purpose

This paper provides information on the proposed revision of the Producers' Guidelines (PG) of Radio Television Hong Kong (RTHK).

Background

2. To codify well-tried and tested editorial practices, RTHK published the first PG in September 1998. The PG reflects not only RTHK's working principles but also the community's expectation with regard to social norms and standards. It enhances the transparency and accountability of the operation of RTHK while serving as internal guidelines on editorial principles and operational matters. The PG was subsequently updated in September 1999, September 2000 and June 2003.

The Revision Exercise

3. In February 2010, an internal Working Group was formed in RTHK to review the present set of PG to cater for its latest operation. The Working Group comprised staff from different sections/units and led by the then Assistant Director of Broadcasting (Radio) (now Deputy Director of Broadcasting (Programmes)). The role of the Working Group is to make recommendations to the Management on the PG revision.

4. The Working Group reported to the Management regularly on the progress of the revision exercise. In January 2013, a draft revised PG was circulated to all staff seeking their comments. Staff consultation lasted from 14 January 2013 to 19 April 2013. Membership of the Working Group was further expanded after the staff consultation period. Section heads were invited to nominate staff to join the Working Group so that all sections are represented in the Working Group.

5. The RTHK Programme Staff Union submitted its views on the proposed amendments to the PG during the staff consultation on 7 March 2013 but it subsequently decided to withdraw the views submitted. A final submission was made by the newly elected Executive Committee of the Programme Staff Union on 17 June 2013. In addition to the submission from the Programme Staff Union, comments from other sections and individual staff were also received. All the submissions were thoroughly reviewed and considered in a series of Working Group meetings since May 2013.

6. The Working Group presented a draft revised PG again to the Management at the Strategy Group Meeting (SGM) of RTHK on 24 September 2013. After deliberation, the Management asked the Working Group to review the draft having regard to the comments made during the meeting. The Working Group was specifically asked to provide justifications for incorporating certain text (i.e. “promotion of public values, in particular the values of freedom of expression, openness, expanding public spheres, pluralism, democratic and civic participation, and retain the trust of the community”) which were clearly beyond the definition of public service broadcasting adopted by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organisation (UNESCO), i.e. universality, diversity, independence and distinctiveness of programming. This text had its origin in paragraph 4 of RTHK’s submission to the Review Committee on Public Service Broadcasting on 27 October 2006. It should be noted that the same text was not included in RTHK’s submission during the public consultation exercise and public hearing by the Panel on Information Technology and Broadcasting of the Legislative Council on new RTHK and RTHK Charter (the Charter) from late 2009 to mid-2010.

7. The Working Group conducted further discussions and submitted a revised draft PG to the SGM on 11 March 2014. After fully considered the amendments proposed by the Working Group, the Management agreed to all the proposed amendments but ruled out the proposed addition on “promotion of public values” to the PG which goes beyond the UNESCO definition.

Position of the RTHK Management

8. The PG is an important professional tool which provides guidelines to staff on day-to-day editorial and operational matters. In the last four years, both the staff and Management have been working under the consensus that only revisions absolutely necessary for the daily operation should be pursued. The proposed addition on “promotion of public values” for RTHK is a major departure from the aforesaid consensus.

9. After almost two years of internal discussion and full consultation with all staff, RTHK promulgated a Vision, Mission and Values Statement (VMVS) in 2000 (at Annex A). The Missions in the VMVS have been preserved in entirety in clause 5 (Mission) of the Charter promulgated in August 2010. The Values in VMVS have been fully incorporated and expanded into clause 4 (Public Purposes) and clauses 6 to 8 (Editorial Independence) in the Charter (at Annex B).

10. The Management is of the firm view that if the values of RTHK were to be repeated in the PG at all, they must track the wording of Public Purposes in the Charter to avoid any confusion. If RTHK were to adopt new values different to those set out as Public Purposes in the Charter, the procedure set out in clause 37<sup>1</sup> of the Charter must be followed. It should be noted that before the Charter was drawn up in 2010, there was a three-month public consultation, consultation with and public hearing by ITB Panel and full consultation with all RTHK staff. It is inappropriate for the internal Working Group, or the Programme Staff Union, to unilaterally alter the Public Purposes of RTHK which are the outcome of extensive consultation with various stakeholders.

<sup>1</sup> Clause 37 of the Charter provides that the Charter may be subject to review and renewal in consultation with the Director and the Communications Authority every five years or when necessary.

11. It will be regrettable if anyone were to suggest that the recent revision of the PG has any connection with freedom of expression which is a core value (Public Purposes) of RTHK. Clause 4(b) of the Charter clearly provides that, as one of its Public Purposes, RTHK should “provide an open platform for the free exchange of views without fear and favour. This involves the provision of a wide range of programmes for public participation and expression of views, and provision of a platform to support and facilitate community participation in broadcasting, including the administration of a Community Broadcasting Involvement Fund.” In the last few years, RTHK has launched new public affairs programmes including “Voices from the Hall” and “Face to Face” which provide additional platforms for the public to express their views on a wide range of public policy issues. In addition, over 60 individuals and organizations have successfully applied and granted air time to air their own radio programmes under the pilot Community Involvement Broadcasting Service. RTHK will continue to fulfill the public purposes and mission as enshrined in the Charter.
