Subcommittee on Specification of Arrangements (The Mainland of China) (Avoidance of Double Taxation and the Prevention of Fiscal Evasion with respect to Taxes on Income) (Fourth Protocol) Order

Background Brief

Purpose

1. This paper sets out background information on the Order made under section 49(1A) of the Inland Revenue Ordinance (Cap. 112) ("IRO") and gazetted on 2 October 2015 (L.N. 189) to implement the Fourth Protocol to the Comprehensive Agreement for Avoidance of Double Taxation ("CDTA") signed between Hong Kong and the Mainland ("the Mainland Fourth Protocol"). The paper also summarizes the views and concerns expressed by Members when the relevant subject of CDTAs was discussed by the committees of the Legislative Council ("LegCo").

Background

Comprehensive Agreements for Avoidance of Double Taxation

2. Double taxation refers to the imposition of comparable taxes in more than one tax jurisdiction in respect of the same taxable income. The international community generally recognizes that double taxation hinders the exchange of goods and services, movements of capital, technology and human resources, and poses an obstacle to the development of economic relations between economies. As a business facilitation initiative, it is the Government's policy to enter into CDTAs with Hong Kong's trading and investment partners.

3. Hong Kong adopts the territorial basis of taxation whereby only income sourced from Hong Kong is subject to tax. A local resident's income derived from sources outside Hong Kong will not be taxed in Hong Kong and hence will not be subject to double taxation. Double taxation may occur where a foreign jurisdiction taxes its own residents' income derived from Hong Kong. Although many jurisdictions do provide their residents with unilateral tax relief for the Hong Kong tax they paid on income derived therefrom, the existence of a CDTA will provide enhanced certainty and stability in respect of the elimination of double taxation. Besides, the tax relief provided under a CDTA may exceed the level provided unilaterally by a tax jurisdiction.

Article on exchange of information

Inland Revenue (Amendment) Ordinance 2010

4. A CDTA would normally include an article that provides for the exchange of information ("EoI") necessary for the carrying out of the agreement between the two contracting parties. To enable Hong Kong to adopt the international standard for EoI under CDTAs, i.e. the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development ("OECD") 2004 version of EoI Article, the Administration introduced the Inland Revenue (Amendment) (No. 3) Bill 2009 into LegCo on 29 June 2009. The Bill was passed on 6 January 2010, and the Inland Revenue (Amendment) Ordinance 2010 came into operation on 12 March 2010.

5. The 2004 version of the OECD EoI Article categorically states that the lack of domestic tax interest does not constitute a valid reason for refusing to collect and supply the information requested by another contracting party. Before enactment of the Inland Revenue (Amendment) Ordinance 2010, the Inland Revenue Department ("IRD") could only collect taxpayers' information for the ascertainment of liability, responsibility and obligation under the domestic tax law. In other words, IRD could not collect any tax information unless such information was for domestic tax purposes. This constraint had reduced the number of Hong Kong's potential CDTA partners, and restricted the progress of the negotiations for CDTAs. Upon the commencement of the Inland Revenue (Amendment) Ordinance 2010, IRD is authorized, among other things, to collect information concerning tax of a foreign territory for the purpose of EoI under a CDTA, and supply such information to the other contracting party of a CDTA.

Inland Revenue (Amendment) (No.2) Ordinance 2013

6. In order to cope with recent changes to EoI regime¹, the Administration introduced the Inland Revenue (Amendment) Bill 2013 into LegCo on 12 April 2013 to enable Hong Kong to enter into standalone Tax Information

¹ According to the Administration, the Global Forum on Transparency and Exchange of Information for Tax Purposes ("the Global Forum") has launched a two-phase peer review exercise in 2010 to evaluate jurisdictions' compliance with the international EoI standard. One of the recommendations in the review report of Hong Kong was that Hong Kong should have in place a legal framework for entering into Tax Information Exchange Agreements ("TIEAs"), because the latest international standard on EoI is that a jurisdiction should make available both CDTA and TIEA as EoI instruments with other jurisdictions. OECD also approved in July 2012 an update to the EoI article of its Model Tax Convention and its Commentary.

Exchange Agreements ("TIEAs")² with other jurisdictions and to enhance EoI arrangements in respect of tax types and limitation on disclosure under CDTAs. The Bill was passed and enacted as the Inland Revenue (Amendment) (No. 2) Ordinance 2013 in July 2013. On 25 March 2014, Hong Kong concluded its first TIEA with the United States.

Automatic exchange of financial account information in tax matters

7. At present, Hong Kong is only able to exchange tax information upon request with its treaty partners under either CDTAs or TIEAs. For the purpose of enhancing tax transparency and combating cross-border tax evasion, OECD released in July 2014 the "Standard for Automatic Exchange of Financial Account Information in Tax Matters" calling on governments to collect from financial institutions financial account information of non-domestic tax residents and exchange the information with jurisdictions of residence of account holders on an annual basis.

8. Automatic exchange of financial account information ("AEOI") involves systematic and periodic transmission of financial account information by the source jurisdiction to the jurisdiction of residence of the account holders concerning all types of investment income, account balances or values, and sales proceeds from financial assets on an annual basis. "Automatic exchange" does not mean that there will be free flow of information to all other jurisdictions. The exchange is conducted within the confine of an EoI agreement signed between the tax authorities of two or more jurisdictions.

9. On 15 September 2014, the Administration indicated to the Global Forum on Transparency and Exchange of Information for Tax Purposes ("Global Forum") Hong Kong's support for implementing the new standard on a reciprocal basis, with appropriate partners, with a view to commencing the first information exchange by end of 2018. As advised by the Administration, its initial thinking is to amend IRO to put in place the necessary enabling provisions for AEOI and make use of the bilateral EoI instruments (i.e. CDTA or TIEA) as the legal basis for implementing AEOI. This means that Hong Kong's future AEOI partner must either be its CDTA or TIEA partner. The Administration launched a consultation on 25 April 2015 to gauge views on how Hong Kong should apply the new standard. The consultation ended on 30 June 2015.

² Unlike CDTAs, TIEAs provided for EoI mechanism only without double taxation relief. Before the commencement of the Inland Revenue (Amendment) (No.2) Ordinance 2013, Hong Kong can only enter into tax agreements with other jurisdictions when there is double taxation relief.

The Order gazatted on 2 October 2015

11. L.N. 189 is made by the Chief Executive in Council under section 49(1A) of IRO to implement the Mainland Fourth Protocol³ signed on 1 April 2015. The salient features of the Mainland Fourth Protocol are summarized in the relevant Legal Service Division Report (paragraph 12 of LC Paper No. LS84/14-15) and LegCo Brief (File Ref: TsyB R 183/800-1-1/17/0 (C)).

Concerns and views expressed by Members

Panel on Financial Affairs

12. The FA Panel discussed issues relating to expansion of CDTAs and the latest developments with regard to EoI arrangements at the meetings held on 4 May 2009 and 5 November 2012. Members were briefed on the detailed legislative proposals to enhance EoI arrangements for tax purposes on 4 February 2013. In addition, members were briefed on the latest international development on tax transparency and the proposed policy and legal framework to pursue the AEOI regime in Hong Kong at the meetings held on 3 November 2014 and 6 July 2015. Major views and concerns expressed by members are summarized in Appendix II.

³ The Mainland and Hong Kong signed the Arrangement between the Mainland of China and the Hong Kong Special Administration Region for the Avoidance of Double Taxation and the Prevention of Fiscal Evasion with respect to Taxes on Income and its First Protocol on 21 August 2006. The Second Protocol and the Third Protocol were signed in 2008 and 2010 respectively. These Protocols form integral parts of the Mainland Arrangement.

Bills Committee on Inland Revenue (Amendment) (No.3) Bill 2009

13. During the deliberations of the Bills Committee on Inland Revenue (Amendment) (No. 3) Bill 2009, members were mainly concerned about the adequacy of safeguards to protect taxpayers' right to privacy and confidentiality of the information disclosed to the requesting party in the EoI under CDTAs. In this connection, apart from scrutinizing the Bill, the Bills Committee also examined the various safeguards to be provided in the form of subsidiary legislation and departmental guidelines. The major concerns of members and the Administration's responses are summarized in Appendix III.

Bills Committee on Inland Revenue (Amendment) Bill 2013

14. During the deliberations of the Bills Committee on Inland Revenue (Amendment) (No. 3) Bill 2013, while members generally supported the proposals in the Bill for the purpose of meeting the latest international standard for EoI, they expressed concerns on a number of issues, including the extent of the relaxation of the limitation on information disclosure, possible additional burden on taxpayers in respect of retention and reporting of tax information, adequacy of the safeguards for protecting taxpayers' privacy and confidentiality of tax information exchanged, use of tax information for non-tax related purposes by CDTA partners, and the Administration's strategies for pursuing CDTAs or TIEAs. The major concerns of members and the Administration's responses are summarized in Appendix IV.

Subcommittees formed to study the previous orders made under section 49(1A) of IRO

15. Subcommittees have been formed to study the six batches of orders mentioned in paragraphs 10(a) to 10(d), 10(h) and 10(i) above. The major issues studied by these subcommittees include progress of the Administration's approach and strategy adopted for the negotiation of CDTAs as well as consultation with the local community and relevant stakeholders on the negotiations, financial and economic implications of CDTAs, scope of taxes covered by the CDTAs, adequacy of safeguards under the respective EoI Articles to protect taxpayers' right to privacy and confidentiality of the tax information exchanged, the procedures for handling EoI requests under CDTAs, the mutual agreement procedure in the CDTAs, determination of the resident status of a taxpayer under the CDTAs, and the approach to bring the CDTAs into force.

Major concerns raised by members of the Panel on Financial Affairs on issues relating to expansion of CDTAs and the latest developments on EoI arrangements

Expanding the exchange of tax information regime and introducing a new regime on tax information exchange arrangements

On the proposal to expand the coverage of tax types and usage of tax-related information under the existing EoI regime in CDTAs and introducing a legislative framework for TIEA, some Panel members expressed strong reservation in view of the great differences between the tax regime of Hong Kong and those of other jurisdictions, and the risk of jeopardizing the attractiveness of Hong Kong as an international financial centre to foreign investment. These members considered that the Administration should not be too proactive in bringing the EoI arrangements on par with the international standard. They urged the Administration to enhance the EoI regime only where absolutely necessary to meet the minimum requirements, in particular as the Administration still managed to conclude CDTAs with jurisdictions which had raised concerns on the limitations of Hong Kong's EoI regime during negotiations, and as long as the situation did not give rise to any critical problem.

2. Concern was raised about the practicability to trace and exchange tax information that was generated a long time ago before the effective date of the relevant CDTA/TIEA agreements. A member suggested that, instead of relaxing the disclosure limitation, treaty partners should make preparation in the transitional period before the CDTA/TIEA took effect, such that the information to be exchanged for tax purposes would only cover those after the effective date of the relevant provisions of CDTA/TIEA.

3. The Administration advised that the latest international standard for EoI arrangements was reflected in the 2012 version of EoI article of OECD's Model Tax Convention and its Commentary. Hong Kong would only meet the minimum requirements even if the legislative proposals were passed. The Administration further emphasized that the current proposal still upheld the policy of no retrospectivity for EoI as it only relaxed the limitation on disclosure slightly by allowing the Commissioner of Inland Revenue ("CIR") to disclose information in response to an EoI request only if he was satisfied that such information related to tax assessments in respect of any period after the date on which the relevant CDTA/TIEA came into operation.

Privacy protection

4. Some members expressed concern about protection of the confidentiality of the tax information exchanged with another jurisdiction under a CDTA, and the mechanism to ensure that only legitimate and justifiable requests could be entertained. Some members took the view that extending IRD's power to gather information from taxpayers and provide the information to the contracting parties of CDTA should be examined and taken forward in a prudent manner, taking into consideration the uniqueness of Hong Kong's small and open financial market and the possible number of requests for information from the contracting parties.

5. The Administration stressed that information exchange was conducted on a case-specific basis and prudent safeguards had been put in place to protect the confidentiality of the information exchanged. IRD would carefully consider requests for tax information having regard to a set of prescribed criteria, including whether the information under request was directly related to tax purposes and within the coverage of CDTAs or TIEAs. Besides, the EoI mechanism also provided that any information received by a contracting party, including commercial information, should be treated confidential and might be disclosed only to persons or authorities (including courts and administrative bodies) in the jurisdiction concerned with the assessment or collection of, the enforcement or prosecution in respect of, or the determination of appeals in relation to, the taxes covered by the agreement; and such persons or authorities should only use such information only for such purpose. The Administration supplemented that, if treaty partners were considered to have violated their obligations, including the confidentiality requirements, Hong Kong would, if warranted, take necessary action against the treaty partner in question, including termination of the relevant CDTA/TIEA.

6. As to whether the taxpayer concerned would be informed of the request for information on his case, the Administration advised that CIR was required to inform the taxpayer concerned of the disclosure request from CDTA or future TIEA partners. The taxpayer might request a copy of the information that CIR was prepared to disclose, and amend the information if it was factually incorrect. The Inland Revenue (Disclosure of Information) Rules (Cap. 112 sub. leg. BI) also provided for a review system in handling appeals, whereby the taxpayer in question might request the Financial Secretary to direct CIR to make the amendments to the information to be disclosed.

Major concerns raised by members of the Bills Committee on Inland Revenue (Amendment) (No. 3) Bill 2009 and the Administration's responses

Approach for setting out the EoI safeguards

Some members and deputations considered that the fundamental safeguards on the scope and usage of information exchanged should be provided in the primary legislation. The Administration explained that other jurisdictions did not provide standard OECD EoI safeguards in their primary legislation. Instead, the following safeguards would be put in place –

- (a) incorporating the most prudent safeguards acceptable under the OECD Model Article in individual CDTAs, which would be implemented as subsidiary legislation subject to the negative vetting procedure, or in documents of record between the two contracting parties;
- (b) putting in place domestic safeguards through a set of rules (i.e. the Inland Revenue (Disclosure of Information) Rules) ("the Disclosure Rules") to be made under section 49(6) of IRO¹; and
- (c) setting out the procedural guidelines for IRD in the processing of EoI requests in a Departmental Interpretation and Practice Note.

2. To address members' concerns, the Administration presented a sample EoI Article to the Bills Committee (LC Paper No. CB(1)106/09-10(02) and undertook to set out clearly all the safeguards adopted in individual CDTAs and any deviation from the sample text in its submissions to LegCo on subsidiary legislation to implement CDTAs. The Administration also agreed to subject the proposed Disclosure Rules to the positive vetting procedure, rather than the negative vetting procedure as originally proposed.

No retrospective effect of EoI arrangements under CDTAs

3. Members considered that the EoI arrangements under CDTAs should have no retrospective effect, i.e. IRD would not entertain any request for information relating to a period before the effective date of the respective CDTAs. The Administration advised that a standard article would be included in all CDTAs setting out that all provisions under the CDTA should have effect from a stipulated date as agreed and should only apply to taxes after the effective date, and IRD would not disclose any information in response to a disclosure request unless the information did not relate to any period before the relevant CDTA came into operation.

4. Having considered members' views, the Administration agreed to add a provision in the Disclosure Rules stipulating that there shall be no retrospective effect for EoI arrangements under CDTAs, and that no information existing at any time prior to the effective date of a CDTA shall be disclosed.

Review of decision of IRD

5. Under the Disclosure Rules, where CIR partially approves or refuses a request for amendments, the person concerned may request the Financial Secretary ("FS") to direct CIR to make the amendments. Given the standard 90-day response time set by OECD for EoI, members were concerned whether the information would have been transmitted to the requesting party before completion of the review procedure. The Administration advised that it would be stipulated in the Departmental Interpretation and Practice Note that the relevant information would not be transmitted to the requesting party before completion of the review procedure, if a review was requested.

6. There were views that an independent tribunal/appeal panel/the Board of Review should be authorized to review IRD's decisions on disclosure of information under a CDTA, and that FS be empowered to review the question of law on the decisions of IRD on collection or disclosure of information, in addition to the power to review the question of fact, i.e. the accuracy of the information to be disclosed by IRD.

7. The Administration advised that FS, as the oversight body under the law, would review submissions on factual accuracy of the information. If a person thought that IRD had not properly discharged its responsibility to ensure that the information requested was within the scope of the relevant CDTA or the law, he could challenge IRD's decisions/actions through judicial review.

Major concerns raised by members of the Bills Committee on Inland Revenue (Amendment) Bill 2013 and the Administration's responses

Benefits of TIEAs and possible additional burdens to Hong Kong taxpayers

Noting that TIEAs would bring no double taxation relief but would involve the provision of confidential information of taxpayers to other tax jurisdictions, some members expressed concern about the benefits for Hong Kong in entering into TIEAs with other jurisdictions and the possible burden on Hong Kong taxpayers on retention and reporting of tax information.

2. The Administration explained that the introduction of the TIEA framework was essential to Hong Kong's international reputation and competitiveness. Without a legal framework for TIEAs, Hong Kong might fail the Phase 2 peer review of the Global Forum and run the risk of being labelled as an uncooperative jurisdiction, which in turn would undermine its position and competitiveness as an international business and financial centre. The Administration stressed that it would only disclose the relevant information requested according to the provisions of CDTAs/TIEAs and the laws of Hong Kong, and would not make any investigation or take enforcement actions on behalf of tax authorities of other jurisdictions.

Relaxation of limitation on information disclosure

3. On the proposal under the Bill to amend section 4 of the Disclosure Rules to allow CIR to disclose tax information generated prior to the effective date of the relevant CDTA or TIEA, some members expressed concern that the proposal might lead to compulsory disclosure of information generated longer than the existing requirement on taxpayers to retain business records for seven years under sections 51C and 51D of IRO. Some members considered that the Administration should consider restricting disclosure of information to that generated within seven years prior to the effective date of the relevant CDTA/TIEA.

4. The Administration explained that when conducting EoI under the CDTA framework, it had all along adopted a policy of imposing a limitation on the information to be exchanged. That is, the information disclosed to CDTA partners must relate to the carrying out of the provisions of the relevant CDTA or the administration or enforcement of the tax laws of the CDTA partner concerning taxes imposed in the periods after the provisions of the CDTA came into effect. The Administration stressed that it had no intention to deviate from this policy. In respect of the concern about burden on taxpayers in the retention of records to beyond seven years, the Administration advised that it had no plan to change the existing record-keeping requirements under sections 51C and 51D of IRO.

Safeguards to protect taxpayers' privacy and confidentiality of information exchanged

5. The Bills Committee was gravely concerned about the safeguards to be put in place under the Bill and the future TIEAs to ensure IRD would not release information for inappropriate reasons and the protection on taxpayers' privacy and confidentiality of information exchanged.

6. The Administration advised that, after the legal framework for TIEAs was in place following the passage of the Bill, in order to afford legal protection to taxpayers in terms of privacy and confidentiality of information exchanged, it would follow the current approach on CDTAs to strive to provide relevant safeguards in the texts of TIEAs. Each CDTA and TIEA signed would be implemented as subsidiary legislation domestically, subject to negative vetting by LegCo. The existing Disclosure Rules, providing for domestic statutory safeguards in addition to those provided in individual agreements, would be extended and become applicable to EoI under both CDTAs and TIEAs.

7. As regards whether taxpayers could challenge the Administration on inappropriate disclosure of tax information to be exchanged, the Administration responded that a person may challenge the validity of the decision in respect of a disclosure request made under the Disclosure Rules, including approval of a disclosure request, permission to waive particulars in the Schedule to the Disclosure Rules, and partial approval or refusal of amendments to information to be disclosed, by way of an application to court for a judicial review. The Administration stressed that the particulars to be contained in an EoI request as set out in the Schedule to the Disclosure Rules, including the statement about the relevance of the information to the purpose of the request to be made by the requesting party, together with the legal status of the Rules, should provide adequate protection to the concerned taxpayers.

Use of tax information exchanged for non-tax related purposes

8. Members noted that the Administration was prepared to abide by OECD's new requirement by allowing future CDTA partners to use the tax information exchanged for other purposes. The Administration reiterated that the purpose of the Bill was only to put in place a legal framework for Hong Kong to enter into standalone TIEAs with other jurisdictions and to enhance the existing EoI arrangements under CDTAs in terms of tax types and limitation on information disclosure to facilitate Hong Kong to meet the international standard on EoI. The purposes (including non-tax related purposes) for which the tax information exchanged might be used were to be governed by the terms of the relevant CDTAs, which was a matter of agreement between Hong Kong and its future CDTA partners. The Administration further confirmed that Hong Kong would not accept the 2012 version of the EoI Article lightly unless both jurisdictions had similar legislation on use of tax information for non-tax related purposes together with law enforcement cooperation arrangements in place between them.

Strategies for pursuing CDTAs or TIEAs and review of CDTAs and TIEAs

9. Regarding the views of some members and deputation that the Administration should uphold its policy of giving greater priority to negotiation of a CDTA than a TIEA and only consider signing a TIEA when concluding a CDTA is not an option, the Administration responded that given the benefits of CDTAs, it would remain a future policy priority to seek to conclude CDTAs with Hong Kong's trading and investment partners. As it is the international standard that preference for CDTA over TIEA could not be a reason for refusing to enter into an EoI agreement, while the Administration would continue its efforts in persuading trading and investment partners to pursue CDTAs with Hong Kong, it could not preclude the possibility of entering into TIEAs but not CDTAs with some jurisdictions.

10. The Bills Committee urged the Administration to conduct regular reviews of CDTAs/TIEAs that Hong Kong had entered/would enter into in order to ensure that Hong Kong taxpayers' interests were not adversely affected by the agreements. The Administration advised that IRD would keep under constant review the relevant agreements and stood ready to raise with the competent authorities of the CDTA/TIEA partners any particular issues arising from the implementation of the agreements.

Summary of the advice given by the Administration on general or policy issues during the deliberations of the relevant subcommittees

Approach and strategy for the negotiation work

The Government's strategy in negotiating CDTAs is that Hong Kong would attempt first to conclude a CDTA with an identified country in each major region, such as the northern Asian region, the Asian Pacific Region, Europe and the Middle East, so that other countries in the same region would make reference to that CDTA and be more prepared to negotiate a CDTA with Hong Kong.

Consultation with the local community

2. The Administration would bear in mind the need to assure the overall interests of Hong Kong, pay heed to the views of local stakeholders on tax issues of their concern and ensure that Hong Kong's residents and enterprises would benefit from such agreements. The Administration would step up efforts in soliciting views from the relevant sectors for the CDTA negotiations.

Financial and economic implications

3. The impact of the CDTAs on Hong Kong's loss of Government revenue would be minimal since Hong Kong adopts the territorial basis of taxation whereby only income sourced from Hong Kong was subject to tax. There is no precise information with regard to the extent of benefits that would be gained by Hong Kong enterprises and residents under the CDTAs, because the enterprises and residents would not provide such information to the Government unless they have to provide such information to IRD in seeking taxation relief.

Scope of taxes covered by CDTAs

4. The taxes covered by CDTAs are "income taxes" and "capital taxes" (as appropriate) in the broad sense. In each CDTA, there is an Article on "Taxes Covered" and the provisions therein specify the types of taxes to which the Agreement should apply. Owing to the special nature of the activities of entertainers and sportsmen, there is a separate article in the CDTAs that provides for the tax arrangement for the income of the entertainers and sportsmen who are residents of either Contracting Party derived from their activities exercised in such capacities in the other contracting party.

Privacy protection and confidentiality safeguards in the EoI Article

5. Based on the OECD model text for CDTAs, oversight bodies of tax authorities of the contracting parties are allowed access to the tax information exchanged. However, during the scrutiny of the Inland Revenue (Amendment) (No. 3) Bill 2009, in view of the concern of the Bills Committee, the Administration undertook to seek to confine disclosure of information to the tax authorities but not their oversight bodies when negotiating individual CDTAs.

6. In the negotiation process, Hong Kong would attempt to include express provisions in the CDTAs, as far as possible, to forbid automatic and/or spontaneous exchange of information. The inclusion of such provisions would depend on the stance of the particular treaty partner. The Administration would explain the legal requirements of the Rules to the treaty partners, and provide them with copies of the Rules during the course of negotiation.

7. The provision "[i]nformation shall not be disclosed to any third jurisdiction for any purpose" in the respective EoI Article of certain CDTAs is binding on and must be observed by the Contracting Parties (including their authorities, such as courts and administrative bodies), and obligations under this provision are not affected by other bilateral agreements in place such as agreements for mutual legal assistance in criminal matters with third jurisdictions.

Procedures for handling EoI requests under CDTAs

8. Before acceding to an EoI request from a contracting party, IRD will examine whether the request is foreseeably relevant to the carrying out of the CDTA or to the administration and enforcement of the contracting party's local tax laws, and consider carefully the supporting evidence and facts of proof provided by the contracting party. Moreover, when gathering information from the subject persons or relevant third parties who hold the relevant information or documents under the EoI request, IRD will consider their objections, if any, to the disclosure of the information to the contracting party.

9. To gather information, IRD will issue a formal notice to the information holder requesting for the relevant information or documents. If the information holder has the need to know the name of the requesting treaty partner (e.g. claiming privilege against self-incrimination), IRD is prepared to take a pragmatic approach to deal with the situation after striking a balance between the international standard and information holder's need. Specifically, where the information holder has reasonable grounds to know the name of the requesting treaty partner, IRD would seek prior consent of the requesting treaty partner before disclosure of the name. If the requesting treaty partner declines to give any consent, IRD will inform the information holder accordingly. If the information holder refuses to provide the information requested as the name of the requesting treaty partner is not known, IRD will, having considered the circumstances of the case, decline the disclosure request for reason that it could not disclose to the information holder the name of the requesting treaty partner, which is considered necessary to facilitate the gathering of the requested information.

Mutual agreement procedure

10. The provisions for arbitration were added to the OECD Model Tax Convention in 2008, and Hong Kong would be prepared to include provisions for arbitration in negotiating for a CDTA. Without the arbitration provisions, it is theoretically possible that a case remains unresolved for an indefinite period if it cannot be settled by mutual agreement between the contracting parties.

Definition of "resident"

11. In all the CDTAs Hong Kong has entered into, paragraph 1 of the Article on "Resident" provides the definition of the term "resident of a Contracting Party" for the purposes of the respective Agreements. Where by reason of the provisions of paragraph 1 of the Article an individual was a resident of both contracting parties, the status of the resident would be determined according to the criteria set out in paragraph 2 of the Article. If based on those criteria the status of the individual remains unresolved, the matter would have to be settled through mutual agreement of the Contracting Parties.

Approach of bringing CDTAs into force

12. The Entry Into Force Article of CDTAs contains provisions as to what procedures are required for a CDTA to enter into force and in which assessment year the tax arrangements set out in a CDTA will become effective. Upon the entry into force of a CDTA, IRD will publish an announcement on its website for public information. IRD will also actively send emails to tax practitioners and registered foreign and local business associations upon the entry into force of a CDTA. With the knowledge of a CDTA through a relevant Order published in the Gazette, residents of the contracting parties would make arrangements for their activities with a view to reaping tax benefits when the tax arrangements of the CDTA become effective. No complaints or objections regarding such approach have been received from the public.
