

About the Ivory trade

Marcus CHEUNG to: bc_06_16

29/08/2017 16:01

Dear Legco employees

I, speaking for the elephants, I want to say that I don't like how there is a retail market of Ivory, as we are the biggest retail Ivory market. If you would stop and ban the ivory trade, you should give a certain amount of HK Dollars for a kilo of Ivory, so they would more likely give up the business of selling Ivory. Even if this may not stop all of the trafficking, it will still stop most of the Ivory trade. The elephant is starting to go extinct. But we will also ask you to try getting people check for people at some shady places to crack down the traffickers, even lessing even more Ivory sold. Please take this seriously, as these animals have feelings some even stronger than humans. When they go extinct, they will only be able to be seen in books and pictures.

By Marcus Cheung
South Island School