Dear Sir,

I'm writing to support the complete ban on trading of ivory and rhino horns in Hong Kong and the traders should not get any compensation. China is the number one killer of the world's animal species and environment. Hong Kong has unfortunately become an accomplice in the Chinese atrocity by being the largest trading center for the insatiable Chinese appetite. Banning the trading is a small step Hong Kong can take in helping saving one or two animal species from the fate of extinction in our life time.

Thank you for your consideration.

Best regards,

Yu Yu
