Dear sir,

I am writing to express my concern to compensate the ivory trader. This will jeopardize the purpose of ivory ban and create demand for ivory as the trader and poacher will still get the money, not from the buyer but from the government. Please, DO NOT provide any compensation for banning ivory trade. This is a cruel business, making money out by killing our beautiful creature. As one of the biggest international city on earth, Hong Kong is accountable to protect our earth and the animals living on it. I want my children and grandchildren still see elephants in their generation.

Please make the right decision for us Hong Kong and make us proud.

Thanks and best regards,
Carol
