Legal Service Division Reports on Subsidiary Legislation

Purpose of Paper

The purpose of this paper is to explain to Members the reason for the large volume of subsidiary legislation which is now presented to Members and to recommend that a Subcommittee be formed to study them.

Background

2. Under the Interpretation and General Clauses Ordinance (Cap. 1) items of subsidiary legislation made and gazetted after 11 March 1998 are still subject to the scrutiny of this Council. They include items of subsidiary legislation which had been tabled at a meeting of the Provisional Legislative Council and those which have not been tabled because there has been no meeting of the Provisional Legislative Council since they were gazetted.

Nature of subsidiary legislation

3. The explanation for the large volume (64 items as at 30 June 1998) lies in the nature of subsidiary legislation. For many years legislatures worldwide have recognised that it is not practical for them to spend legislative time enacting the detailed rules and regulations which are often necessary to implement a statute (ordinance).

4. Therefore the solution commonly adopted (as in Hong Kong) is that the legislature, by a specific provision in the statute, authorizes the executive to enact subsidiary rules and regulations to make the statute work in practice. These subsidiary rules have the force of law. Hence they are called “subsidiary legislation” (or “subordinate” or “delegated” legislation).

Role of the legislature

5. Because subsidiary legislation has the force of law (and is therefore capable of interfering with citizen's rights) it is essential that the legislature should retain supervisory control over it.

6. This supervisory control by the legislature is achieved by comprehensive statutory provisions which apply to all subsidiary legislation. In Hong Kong these provisions are contained in sections 34 and 35 of the Interpretation and General Clauses Ordinance (Cap. 1). The texts of these sections are annexed (Appendix I) to this paper for Members' ease of reference. In brief, they ensure the following :

- (a) this Council has an opportunity to amend any subsidiary legislation, within certain time limits ("the section 34 procedure");
- (b) some items of subsidiary legislation will not come into effect without the prior approval of this Council ("the section 35 procedure").

7. All the items of subsidiary legislation currently submitted to Members are subject to the section 34 procedure. Provisional Legislative Council Briefs issued by the Administration on items of subsidiary legislation are appended to the relevant reports on them. Members may also obtain copies of the gazetted version of these items of subsidiary legislation from the Legislative Council Library.

8. Items of subsidiary legislation listed at Appendix II were made and gazetted shortly before the last meeting of the Provisional Legislative Council on 7 April 1998. Under section 34(2) and (3) of the Interpretation and General Clauses Ordinance (Cap. 1), the scrutiny period of these items of subsidiary legislation by the Council is deemed to extend to and expire on the day after the second meeting (i.e. 8 July 1998) of this Council. The scrutiny period could be further extended under the Interpretation and General Clauses Ordinance (Cap. 1) by resolution of this Council to the next meeting (i.e. 15 July 1998).

9. Items of subsidiary legislation listed at Appendix III were made and gazetted after the last meeting of the Provisional Legislative Council on 7 April 1998. These items of subsidiary legislation were tabled at the meeting of this Council on 2 July 1998 and this Council may by resolution amend these items at the meeting of this Council to be held on 29 July 1998 or the next meeting of this Council if extended by resolution.

Suggested method of approach

10. In scrutinizing subsidiary legislation the principal tests are :

- (a) lawfulness - are the provisions within the limits of the authority entrusted to the executive by the legislature in the principal ordinance?
- (b) fairness/reasonableness - even if lawful, are the provisions acceptable on their merits?
- (c) clarity - even if lawful, fair and reasonable, can improvements be made to the drafting to help citizens understand them?

11. It is the Legal Service Division's responsibility to advise Members on (a) and (c) above since legal issues are involved. Hence the Division scrutinizes all items when they are gazetted, normally on a Friday. A written report is then produced for the next House Committee meeting, held usually on the following Friday. The weekly report enables Members to monitor all items. Those which are of interest or concern to one or more Members will then be followed up, either by the Legal Service Division or the Secretariat, on request. If Members find there are issues that need to be further pursued, a subcommittee may be formed to study a particular item in detail. Alternatively, a subcommittee may be set up at the outset, if necessary.

Amendment of subsidiary legislation by LegCo resolution

12. If as a result of the scrutiny of an item of subsidiary legislation it is found that changes should be made, Members may amend it by passing a resolution in this Council within the prescribed time limits.

13. Any such amendment to a piece of subsidiary legislation by resolution takes effect only from the date of gazettal of the resolution. Therefore the amendment does not affect anything done before then under the subsidiary legislation although it might have already taken effect.

14. However, the power of the Council to amend cannot exceed the power to make the subsidiary legislation exercisable by the body which makes it.

Recommendation

15. To ensure proper scrutiny of the large number of items of subsidiary legislation, Members may consider it advisable to form a Subcommittee to study these items.

16. In relation to those items of subsidiary legislation referred to at Appendix II Members may consider extending the scrutiny period from 8 July to 15 July 1998 in order to allow the Subcommittee time to consider them.

This Notice specifies 24 April 1998 as the day on which the Housing (Amendment) (No. 2) Ordinance 1998 (24 of 1998) (“the Amendment Ordinance”) came into operation. The main object of the Amendment Ordinance is to provide that the Housing Authority may require tenants to pay different rents based on their total household income or total household income and assets.

Legal Practitioners (Amendment) Ordinance 1998 (27 of 1998) (Commencement) Notice 1998 (L.N. 213)

This Notice specifies 24 April 1998 as the day on which section 7 of the Legal Practitioners (Amendment) Ordinance 1998 (27 of 1998) (“the Amendment Ordinance”) came into operation. The main purpose of the Amendment Ordinance is to provide for the appointment in Hong Kong of notaries public. Section 7 of the Amendment Ordinance also provides for amendments to the Principal Ordinance consequent upon the bringing into operation of the Bankruptcy (Amendment) Ordinance 1996 (76 of 1996) on 1 April 1998, which affects the practice of a solicitor in the event of his bankruptcy.

Instead of synchronizing the commencement dates of the Amendment Ordinance and the Bankruptcy (Amendment) Ordinance 1996, it is noted that there is a time gap between the commencement dates of the 2 Amendment Ordinances. We have asked the Administration to comment on possible legal or practical difficulties that may arise from such gap.

The Administration's replies are summarised as follows :

- (a) The Bankruptcy (Amendment) Ordinance 1996 failed to pick up the consequential amendments required to be made to the Legal Practitioners Ordinance. The need for such amendments were subsequently included in the Legal Practitioners (Amendment) Ordinance as the next most suitable vehicle.
- (b) Despite the time gap between the commencement dates of the 2 Amendment Ordinances, the Official Receiver confirms that no solicitor has had a receiving or bankruptcy order made against him or entered into a voluntary arrangement during the time gap. The Administration is of the view that the time gap problem is only a theoretical one.

In the light of the factual situation that no solicitor has had a receiving or bankruptcy order made against him or entered into a voluntary arrangement during the time gap, we agree with the Administration that the problem is a theoretical one without causing any practical difficulties to the enforcement of the bankruptcy law in relation to a bankrupt solicitor during the material period.

Stamp Duty (Amendment) (No. 2) Ordinance 1998 (33 of 1998) (Commencement)
Notice 1998 (L.N. 214)

This Notice specifies 1 May 1998 as the day on which sections 2, 3, 4, 6(a) and (b), 7, 8, 9, 10, 11(b) and 12 of the Stamp Duty (Amendment) (No. 2) Ordinance 1998 (33 of 1998) ("the Amendment Ordinance") will come into operation. The main purpose of the Amendment Ordinance is to amend the Stamp Duty Ordinance (Cap. 117) to give effect to the proposals in the 1998-99 Budget. Provisions which have not come into operation are related to rounding up payment of fraction of $1 as $1 and automation of stock borrowing and lending.
