LC Paper No. CB(1)1736/99-00(01)

Ref: CB1/HS/3/99

Paper for the Subcommittee on Payment of Honoraria to Government Boards and Committees

Analysis of the current remuneration arrangements for non-official members of Government Boards and Committees

Purpose

The paper sets out the current remuneration arrangement for non-official members of Government boards and committees (Government committees) according to the work nature of the committees. It also provides a general analysis of the current deficiencies and inconsistencies to facilitate discussion on the principles to be adopted in the granting of remuneration or honoraria to non-official members appointed to serve on Government committees.

Background

2. The Administration has confirmed in its previous paper to the Subcommittee on Payment of Honoraria to Government Boards and Committees (the Subcommittee) that the service of non-officials on boards and committees is voluntary and, as a general rule, un-remunerated. However, following a review in 1980, it has been agreed by the Finance Committee that where considered appropriate, remuneration may be considered, but the rate should normally be in respect of payment of expenses and/or compensation for earnings forgone. A maximum rate for such remuneration has also been set and further adjusted by the Secretary for the Treasury under delegated authority. The current rate is $785 per attendance.

3. The Subcommittee noted at its meeting on 22 February 2000 that despite the approved policy mentioned above, it is up to the Bureau Secretary concerned to propose the payment of remuneration/honoraria. When a proposal is put to the Secretary for the Treasury for approval, the Finance Bureau seldom challenges the proposed rate as long as it does not exceed the approved ceiling. Where the proposed rate exceeds the ceiling, the Bureau Secretary concerned would have to seek approval from the Finance Committee.

4. In view of the inconsistencies of the rates approved, the subcommittee has sought more detailed information on the rates of remuneration/honoraria being granted to non-official members of all Government boards and committees, including those not wholly funded by the Government and statutory boards not funded by General Revenue.

Nature of work of Government committees

5. According to the information provided by the Administration vide LC Paper No. CB(1) 1641/99-00, there are altogether 585 Government committees with a total of 10 528 non-official members. Of these committees, 226 are established by statute, with 36 being provided a mechanism for remunerating the members sitting on the committees. 359 committees are non-statutory committees. Appointments to these non-statutory committees are normally made by the respective Bureau Secretaries or Heads of Departments.

6. To facilitate comparison, the current remuneration arrangements for the 585 committees are grouped under the following seven categories, as given in Appendices I to VII:

- (a) Boards/committees with executive powers and responsibilities for specific public services (other than those in (b) below), such as Housing Authority, Vocational Training Council (Appendix I);
- (b) Licensing boards/authorities, such as Liquor Licensing Board (Appendix II);
- (c) Advisory bodies, such as Labour Advisory Board, Town Planning Board (Appendix III);
- (d) Appeal boards and committees handling complaints (other than those in (e) below), such as MPF Schemes Appeal Board, Immigration Tribunal (Appendix IV);
- (e) Regulatory bodies for professions, such as Structural Engineers Registration Committee, Disciplinary Board Panel under the Lifts and Escalators (Safety) Ordinance (Appendix V);
- (f) Trust fund bodies, such as Council of the Sir Edward Youde Memorial Fund (Appendix VI); and
- (g) District bodies, such as District Health Committees, Area Committees, Community Centre Management Committees (Appendix VII).

Boards/committees with executive powers and functions

7. Out of the 36 boards/committees with executive powers and functions, 12 provide some form of remuneration, in the form of honoraria, to the non-official chairmen and/or members. With the exception of those chairmen who are also the chief executives of the organizations, the honoraria given to the chairmen of these committees range from $1,086,300 per annum in the case of Housing Authority, to $100,000 per annum in Land Development Corporation Management Board, but none in most cases. The Chairman of the Housing Authority is the only non-executive chairman whose honorarium is linked to the Civil Service Pay Scale.

8. Remuneration for chairmen or members with executive functions is usually not known as the information is regarded as confidential. The only known case is the Chairperson of the Equal Opportunities Commission who cannot hold any office of profit other than his office unless with the specific approval of the Chief Executive. The remuneration for this office is pegged to D8 of the Directorate Pay Scale of the Civil Service, i.e. $2,172,600 per annum.

9. As for members, the honoraria range from $234,000 per annum in the case of the Securities and Future Commission, $110,000 per annum in Airport Authority and the boards of the two railway companies, to $200 per meeting in Consumer Council. In some cases, members are given travelling allowance, but in most cases, members do not receive any remuneration. Honorarium is normally given to non-local members, e.g. $26,000 per annum in the case of Hong Kong Council for Academic Accreditation.

10. No particular pattern or rationale can be identified from the different levels of honoraria granted to the non-official members serving on these committees. It is however observed that those who are remunerated are those sitting on committees responsible for services the public is more concerned about, e.g. housing, transport, securities and futures. Nevertheless, no remuneration is given to those sitting on the Hospital Authority or the Board of the Hong Kong Exchanges and Clearing Limited, despite their services are also of great concern to the public.

11. It is also observed that remuneration is normally not granted to the governing Councils of tertiary institutions. The only exception is the Council of the Open University of Hong Kong, a self-financing body, which also grant an honorarium of $26,000 per annum to its non-local members. None of the committees relating to art and culture or trade and industry are remunerated.

12. Although it is not possible to compare the work of each and every one of these committees with executive functions, a table which set out the duties and functions of some of the more representative chairmen or committees in this category, especially those receiving remuneration, is provided in Appendix VIII.

Licensing bodies

13. There are two licensing bodies -- the Liquor Licensing Board and the Air Transport Licensing Authority. The chairman and member of Liquor Licensing Board are remunerated at $1,180 and $785 per attendance respectively, while no remuneration is given to the latter authority as proposals are made by circulation. The reason for the rate of remuneration for the Liquor Licensing Board cannot be identified.

Advisory bodies

14. There are 253 committees giving advice to the Government in respect of policies and administration of government functions. Only 19 of them are providing their members with remuneration/honoraria.

15. Advisory committees are usually chaired by Government officials. There is no information on whether any of the non-official chairmen are remunerated. The two exceptions, the Chairman of the Public Service Commission and the Chairman of the Guardianship Board, who are not civil servants, are appointed on a full-time basis and their remuneration is pegged respectively to D8 and D3 of the Civil Service Directorate Pay scale.

16 The honoraria for non-official members range from $240,000 per annum in the case of the Electoral Affairs Commission to $6,000 per annum in the Subcommittees of the Quality Education Fund. Quite a number of these committees provide a per-meeting honorarium , ranging from $785 in Town Panning Board and Labour Advisory Board, $306 in Broadcasting Authority, $90 in curriculum-related committees, to $50 in ICAC's citizens advisory committees and subcommittees. For some committees with quasi-judicial functions, e.g. Guardianship Board, members and witnesses are given honoraria on a per-day or per-half-day basis. The rate for members who are lawyers or doctors is $3,000 per day while social workers and psychologists receive $2,000 per day and other members receive $800 per day. Adjudicators for the control of obscene and indecent articles also receive an honorarium of $800 per day.

17. The members of the other 230 committees do not receive any remuneration or travelling allowance, although some of them meet at least once a month and do shoulder heavy responsibilities, e.g. Education Commission, Advisory Council on the Environment, Culture and Heritage Commission.

Boards/tribunals handling appeals and complaints

18. There are 52 appeal boards/tribunals handling appeals and complaints (except those related to the registration and professional conduct of professions). 25 of them provide remuneration to the chairmen and members. Among these 25 boards, 8 have their remuneration packages approved by the Finance Committee as the rates proposed are above the approved ceiling. A higher rate has been granted to the chairman of these 8 appeal boards in view of the legal experience and expertise called for and the workload involved. The rate is $86,520 for annual retainer, $4,440 for each sitting and $8,870 for writing a decision. For the Review Body of Bid Challenges, an hourly rate of $4,000 - $5,000 is granted to the Chairman having regard to the market rate for engaging legal professionals.

19. The rates for the other 17 boards/tribunals with remuneration are approved by the Financial Secretary or by the relevant Bureau Secretary depending on the level of rates proposed and the approving authorities specified in law. The rates for duties comparable to those of the chairmen of the appeal boards referred to in paragraph 18 above are lower in these cases. The rate for the chairmen of 3 finance-related appeal boards is $50,000 for annual retainer, $3,500 for each sitting and $3,500 for writing a case. The rate for the Chairman of the Copyright Tribunal under the Trade & Industry Bureau is $6,870 per day.

20. According to the Administration, the chairman of these appeal bodies/tribunal should be person qualified as a solicitor or barrister and for appointment as District Judge. The rates were therefore so proposed. It is noticed that the same requirement has also been laid down for the Chairman of the Appeal Tribunal Panel (Buildings) who receives $790 per hour and for the Chairman of Appeal Board Panel (EIA) who receives no remuneration.

21. As for members sitting on appeal boards/tribunals, the rates fluctuated greatly. The rates recommended to the Finance Committee for similar nature of duties are also different from case to case. No remuneration is granted to the members of the pollution-related appeal boards, while a per-meeting rate of $785 is granted to those sitting on Town Panning Board and the Review Body on Bid Challenges and $220 to those on Inland Revenue Board of Review. It is worth noting that the members serving on the Inland Revenue Board of Review ought to have at least ten years of experience in professions such as architects, engineers, lawyers, accountants, etc.

22. The policy on whether or not remuneration should be granted and what rate should be adopted vary from Bureau to Bureau. Here are some examples:

Bureau	Appeal board/tribunal	Rate for members
Finance Bureau	- Inland Revenue Board of Review	$220 per sitting

Registration/Disciplinary boards for professionals and occupations

23. There are 37 boards responsible for the registration and disciplinary proceedings in respect of professions and occupations. Ten of them are allowed by law to be remunerated in view of their public duty, but only 5 of them are providing honoraria for their members, ranging from $3,030 per day to $785 per day. The other 26 boards are mainly registration bodies of professions or occupations. Three of them, all under the Buildings Department, are remunerating the members, and the rates are all set at $785 per meeting, while no remuneration is granted in all other committees.

Trust fund bodies

24. There are 27 charitable trust funds bodies, to which members of the general public of specific groups in the community may turn for relief and assistance. Many of these funds are either statutory funds or funds administered through various Government departments, covering a wide range of objectives - charity, education, recreation and agriculture. The frequency of the meetings held is usually low, with 18 bodies holding 2 or less meetings in a year, 3 with 3 meetings and 6 of them holding 4 - 6 meetings in a year. None of the chairmen or members of these trust fund bodies receive any honoraria or remuneration. No inconsistency is therefore identified.

District bodies

25. The 178 district bodies play an advisory and liaison role to assist and enhance Government's effort in serving the community. Most of the district bodies are under Home Affairs Department and two under the Department of Health, as follows:

Department	Name of Committee
Home Affairs Department	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ◆ District Fight Crime Committee ◆ District Fire Safety Committee ◆ Area Committee ◆ District/Estate Management Committee ◆ District Summer Youth Programme District Co-organizing Committee ◆ District Committee on the promotion of Civic Education ◆ School Liaison Committee ◆ Commercial and Industrial Committee ◆ Youth Recreation Co-ordinating Committee ◆ Urban Minor Works District Working Group ◆ Community Centre/Hall Management Committee

Department	Name of Committee
Department of Health	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ♦ District Co-ordinating Committee on New Arrival Services ♦ Civic Education Campaign Organizing Committee ♦ Keep Hong Kong Clean Campaign ♦ Rural Committee ♦ District Health Committee ♦ Community Liaison Group of Kowloon Bay Health Centre & Nursing Home

26. None of the chairmen or members of district bodies receive any honoraria or remuneration. No inconsistency is identified.

Matters for consideration

27. It is apparent that there are a lot of inconsistencies in the way non-official members of Government committees are compensated for the time and efforts they have used on the work of the committees they serve. The main reasons might have been the lack of co-ordination in-between Bureau Secretaries and the absence of clear guidelines on the principles to be considered when determining whether remuneration should be given. In taking the matter forward, members may wish to consider the following:

- (a) what mechanism should be put in place to ensure fairness, consistency and comparability in the granting of remuneration to non-official members of Government committees;
- (b) what yardsticks should be used in examining the rate of honorarium/remuneration to be given;
- (c) how far the mechanism and yardsticks in (a) and (b) above can be extended to financially autonomous bodies; and
- (d) in what way the information on the remuneration can be monitored and reviewed in the light of experiences and development.
