Legislative Council Panel on Home Affairs Amendments to licence fees under the Hotel and Guesthouse Accommodation (Fees) Regulations (Cap. 349 Sub. Leg.)

Purpose

This paper briefs Members on the Administration's intention to amend the licence fees under the Hotel and Guesthouse Accommodation (Fees) Regulations (Cap. 349 Sub. Leg.) ("the Fees Regulations").

Background

The Hotel and Guesthouse Accommodation Ordinance (Cap. 349)

2. Cap. 349 was enacted in 1991 to provide for a statutory licensing scheme to regulate the fire and building safety of hotels and guesthouses. The licence fees payable are stipulated under the Fees Regulations made by the then Governor-in-Council, a copy of which is at Annex I. As at the end of March 2001, there were 971 establishments licensed under Cap. 349.

The Hotel Accommodation (Miscellaneous Provisions) Ordinance 1998 ("the 1998 Ordinance")

The 1998 Ordinance amended the Hotel and Guesthouses 3. Accommodation Ordinance to provide for, among others, the issuance and renewal of licences with validity periods of up to seven years. Applications for licences of validity periods of more than 12 months would be considered on a case by case basis. In order to avoid abuse of the multiple year licensing arrangements, such licences would be issued to establishments which have good records of compliance with the fire safety and building safety standards. In addition, for licences of validity periods of more than 36 months to be issued, the Ordinance requires certification by authorized persons of compliance with the fire and building safety standards so as to ensure that safety would not be The issuance of multiple-year licences would help compromised. simplify the licensing process without compromising safety and achieve economy of scale mentioned in paragraph 6 below. In order to implement the new provisions for multiple year licences, the existing fee structure, which only caters for the issue of one-year licences, needs to be revised and the Fees Regulations amended. With the implementation of the new provisions, the Administration would be able to achieve economy of scale in the issuance and renewal of hotel and guesthouse licences.

Full cost recovery

4. It is the Government policy that the licence fees under the Fees Regulations should be set at levels sufficient to recover the full cost of providing the services. The existing fees only recover 34% to 56% of the full cost of issuing new licences; and 77% to 100% of renewal of licences.

Proposed fees in 2001

- 5. In 1998-2000, most Government fees and charges were frozen as an exceptional measure to ease the burden on the community at a time of economic setback. During that period, the Administration conducted a detailed costing review of the hotel and guesthouse licence fees and came up with a proposal for a new fee structure. The proposed fees are set out at Annex II. The proposed fees for the issuance of new licences and licence renewal aim to recover the full cost within one to five years and one to three years respectively. Annex II represents the first phase to full cost recovery. The exception is the licence fees for establishments with more than 100 rooms where the Administration proposes to increase the fees to reflect the full cost of providing the service at 2000-01 prices.
- 6. Operators of hotels and guesthouses will in general benefit considerably from the proposed fees for new and renewed licences with validity periods of two years or more. For example, for a hotel with 101-200 rooms applying for a new licence, under the existing fee structure, the total licence fees over a period of seven years would be $220,220 ($31,460 x 7). Under the proposed fee structure, the fee for a seven-year licence for the hotel in question would be $76,580, resulting in a saving of $143,640 (or 65% of $220,220). Similarly, for a hotel with 101-200 rooms which renews for a seven-year licence, the proposed fee to be payable would be $42,870 and the saving would amount to $177,350 (80% of $220,220). For a guesthouse with 6-9 rooms applying for a new licence, under the existing fee structure, the total licence fees over a period of three years would be $13,050 ($4,350 x 3). Under the proposed fee structure, the fee for a three-year licence for the guesthouse in question would be $8,150, resulting in a saving of $4,900 (about 38% of $13,050).

Consultation

7. The Administration has consulted the hotel and guesthouse industries on the proposed fee structure. Both of them support the proposed fees.

Legislative timetable

8. The Administration intends to forward a Hotel and Guesthouse Accommodation (Fees) (Amendment) Regulation 2001 to the Legislative Council for negative vetting before the end of this legislative session.

Advice sought

9. Members are requested to note the content of this paper. Members' views on the proposed fees are welcomed.
