7. Policy issues related to the provision of primary and secondary schools

In discussing the proposed construction of a primary and a secondary school in Sheung Shui at the Public Works Subcommittee (PWSC) meeting on 29 October 2003, PWSC members expressed reservations about the need to construct the secondary school in view of the declining primary student population. They requested the Administration to withdraw the proposal and consult the Education Panel to clarify the related policy issues.

To be confirmed

In response, the Administration said that EMB had established an effective methodology to project the demand for school places for the school building programme. According to EMB's projection, the demand for secondary school places would increase up to the 2007-08 school year, although there might be a decline in student population in the longer term. Nevertheless, in view of PWSC members' concerns, the Administration agreed to withdraw the proposal and consult the Panel before resubmitting the proposal to PWSC.
