- 3.3 A civil celebrant shall not do anything that will bring the office of civil celebrants into disrepute.

4. Duty to ensure absence of vitiating factors

4.1 A civil celebrant must, before performing his functions as such, take reasonable steps to ensure that there do not exist any circumstances which would render the marriage concerned void or voidable under law.

4.2 For the purposes of paragraph 4.1, a civil celebrant shall not, in case of doubt, celebrate the marriage.

5. Privacy and confidentiality

5.1 A civil celebrant shall protect the privacy of the parties to the marriage and shall, subject to any order of a court of competent jurisdiction, maintain confidentiality in relation to their affairs.

5.2 Notwithstanding paragraph 5.1, a civil celebrant may disclose to a party to a marriage for the purposes of celebration of the marriage personal information of the other party obtained by the civil celebrant for the purposes of celebration of the marriage.

6. Standard of service

A civil celebrant shall perform his functions promptly, effectively and with due care in accordance with, as far as reasonably practicable, the wishes of the parties to the marriage.

7. Ensure solemnity

A civil celebrant shall perform his functions as regards celebration of marriage in such manner that does not undermine the due solemnity of marriage.

8. Inability to act

8.1 If a civil celebrant becomes aware that it is likely that he may not be able to perform any function as a civil celebrant, he shall, as soon as reasonably practicable, inform either of the parties to the marriage concerned.

8.2 If the parties to the marriage so request, the civil celebrant shall use reasonable endeavours to assist in finding another civil celebrant to perform the function concerned.
