The relevant provisions of the Voting By Imprisoned Ordinance which came into operation on 3 July 2009 were related to the registration of electors and the remaining provisions would come into force on the same date as the Amendment Regulations.

The polling hours tied in with the daily routine of prisoners who would cease labour in penal institutions at 4:00 pm and any normal movement would be suspended afterwards; (b) every prisoner-electors would be given reasonable chance and time to vote on the polling day, given that DPSs would be set up inside penal institutions; (c) prisoner-electors would also be given sufficient time to consider which candidate they should vote for as election-related materials would be made available to them before the polling day; (d) for security reason, each eligible prisoner-electors would be allocated a time slot to vote at a DPS and the prisoner-electors would be informed of the allocated timeslot before the polling day; and (e) as the Chief Electoral Officer had been given the statutory power to appoint the polling hours by administrative means, the polling hours of DPSs should not be liable to legal challenge so long as reasonable arrangements had been made for prisoner-electors to vote.
002638 - 002826	Administration Chairman	Concern about prisoner-electors being pressurized to vote Response of the Correctional Services Department (CSD) that broadcast would be arranged throughout the polling day notifying prisoner-electors of the voting arrangement and they could choose to go to DPSs for voting or not on a voluntary basis.
002827 - 004938	Mr Paul TSE Administration Chairman	Response of the Administration to questions raised by Mr Paul TSE - (a) while visitors to prisons could canvass for prisoners' votes in their personal capacity, they were prohibited from doing so if their visits were made in their

		business or official capacities in order to ensure fair and equal treatment to all candidates; (b) CSD would implement appropriate measures, such as arranging briefings and distribution of promotional leaflets, to remind visitors who were visiting prisons in their official and business capacities not to canvass for prisoners' votes. Non-compliance would constitute a criminal offence; (c) additional copies of candidates' introductory leaflets and election-related materials would be made available in penal institutions to ensure that prisoner-electors could make an informed decision when casting votes. In addition, prisoners could access to election-related information through newspapers, magazines, radio and television. Access to information via facsimile and Internet, however, was prohibited due to security reason; (d) CSD would study the feasibility of recording election forums broadcasted in television and allowing prisoner-electors to view them on Sunday if they wished to do so, but careful consideration must be made having regard to the security and resources implications; (e) organizing small group discussion sessions between prisoner-electors and candidates had practical safety and security difficulties given the large number of prisoners and candidates involved; (f) some prisoners detained in maximum security prisons had committed serious crimes, some of them were violent or some might have mental illness, or required maximum protection as some were informers of other law enforcement agencies. For the sake of the personal safety of both candidates and prisoners, only candidates and not their election and polling agents were allowed to observe the poll at DPSs set up inside maximum security prisons. In addition, there were practical difficulties to vet the background of all election and polling agents given the large number involved;

		(g) CSD had an intelligence network inside penal institutions to monitor the conduct of prisoners and detect any unusual activities. Under the Elections (Corrupt and Illegal Conduct) Ordinance, a person who used force or duress to induce another person to vote at the election for a particular candidate or candidates constituted a criminal offence; and (h) to protect secrecy of votes, similar to the arrangement for other electors in a normal polling station, a prisoner-electer would cast his vote inside a voting compartment. As such, his voting preference would unlikely be controlled as it would not be made known to others.
004939 - 010720	Ms Cyd HO Administration	Response of the Administration to questions raised by Ms Cyd HO - (a) the Administration would step up effort to promote secrecy of votes in penal institutions; (b) the voter registration form would be amended in such a way that, for applicants who were prisoners, they would be required to indicate whether they maintained a home outside the prison. Based on the information provided, the Registration and Electoral Office (REO) would take necessary follow-up action upon notification by CSD that a prisoner-electer would be discharged from prison. The Administration would provide the amended form for the Subcommittee's reference when it was finalized; (c) a prisoner-electer who maintained a home outside the prison would be registered to his home address during the term of imprisonment, and would continue to be so registered after being discharged from prison; (d) a prisoner who did not maintain a home outside the prison would be registered to a deemed address. Upon his release, REO would remind him to update REO with his new residential address in order to maintain his status as an eligible electer. The same message would be promoted to ex-prisoners through the	Admin

010721 - 011500	Mr CHEUNG Man-kwong Administration Chairman	Response of the Administration to questions raised by Mr CHEUNG Man-kwong regarding eligibility of prisoner-electors to vote in professional sector functional constituencies (FCs) - (a) the composition of professional sector FCs was in general based on professional membership. For an FC which required professional body membership, a person who was a member of a professional body but had ceased to be a member would cease to be eligible to be registered as an elector under that FC and would be disqualified from voting in a FC election; (b) REO would issue letters to invite umbrella organizations and professional bodies to provide up-to-date membership information to ensure that the electoral records were updated. Relevant bureaux and departments would also provide REO with relevant information that could facilitate the updating of electoral record; and (c) REO would process the updating information received as appropriate, e.g. to update the electoral record after verifying relevant information.
011501 - 011904	Chairman Administration	Response of the Administration on sorting of ballot papers - (a) a DPS might have hundreds of prisoner-electors who belonged to different constituencies. In a LegCo general election, the code of a

In DC and village representative ordinary elections, an envelope would be used to enclose the ballot paper cast at a DPS and the Presiding Officer would write on the envelope the name and number of the constituency concerned to facilitate sorting; (b) for LegCo general election, DC ordinary election and village representative ordinary election, ballot papers cast at DPSs would be delivered to Ballot Paper Sorting Stations for sorting by constituencies before they were transferred to the respective main counting stations for counting of votes; and (c) ballot papers cast at DPSs would be mixed with those cast by other electors before counting of votes.
