Policy Agenda

Introduction

The success of Hong Kong is attributed to the dedication of generations of Hong Kong people who helped to make our home a better place. To sustain this hard-earned achievement, further our economic and social development and improve the quality of life of the public, the Government and every citizen must join force in heading towards the same goals. Last year, Hong Kong experienced a major social incident. At this juncture, the community needs to forge consensus, re-build relationships and move forward on the path of constitutional development. Whilst these remain our priorities, it is pivotal for the Government to continue our efforts to further economic development and improve people's livelihood through appropriate policies and measures and invest in Hong Kong's long-term development.

Over the past two years, the Government started long-term planning in a number of major policy areas, and has put in place various initiatives to address the needs and aspirations of different sectors of the community. Such initiatives include releasing "A Clean Air Plan for Hong Kong" and the "Hong Kong Blueprint for Sustainable Use of Resources 2013-2022"; setting up the Financial Services Development Council and the Economic Development Commission to give advice on our major industries; increasing land and housing supply; embarking on major infrastructure projects such as the three-runway system at the Hong Kong International Airport, the Hong Kong section of the Guangzhou-Shenzhen-Hong Kong Express Rail Link and the Hong Kong-Zhuhai-Macao Bridge; enhancing financial support for the elderly through the Old Age Living Allowance; establishing the Poverty Line; planning for the introduction of the Low-income Working Family Allowance; and formulating new initiatives to foster the diversified and all-round development of our young people.

We have mentioned in this year's Policy Address two policies which would have significant impact on Hong Kong's long-term development. The first is the Long Term Housing Strategy announced in last December and the second is our population policy, both having gone through an extensive process of policy deliberation and public discussion. The former sets out a new strategy and policy direction for addressing our housing problem, with the goal of adequate housing for all in the long run. The latter outlines the blueprint and objectives of our population policy, alongside a package of measures to enable individuals to realise their potential, engender an inclusive society whilst driving social and economic development, and enhance the quality of life of the community.

Sustained economic growth is the cornerstone for social development. We need to strengthen our position as an international financial centre by capitalising on the unique role of Hong Kong in the process of our country's opening up and comprehensive deepening of reforms, whilst exploiting fully the advantages of the Shanghai-Hong Kong Stock Connect and our status as a global offshore Renminbi hub. Furthermore, we should develop a diversified and high value-added service industry to benefit the public more widely, particularly our young people and the grassroots, so that they can share the fruits of our economic achievements.

Last year was a year full of challenges. Looking ahead, the Government will persevere and would, on the basis of the Policy Address and Policy Agenda, continue to develop our strengths and new forces for economic growth. We strive to lay a solid foundation for Hong Kong's overall sustainable development, so that this place that we called home, will continue to thrive.

Chapter 1

Economic Development

Preamble

Continuous and sustainable economic growth is a prerequisite for Hong Kong to tackle housing, poverty, ageing population and environmental problems. Promoting economic development is therefore of utmost importance. We are committed to maintaining a business-friendly environment with a simple and low tax regime. It is pivotal for us to continue to invest in world-class infrastructure to support our economic development and sharpen our competitive edge.

To promote economic development, the Government will stay “appropriately proactive” and, through such channels as the Economic Development Commission and the Financial Services Development Council, gather industries’ views on the on-going formulation of a holistic industrial policy and ways to further Hong Kong’s economic success. The Government will advance economic and financial co-operation with the Mainland by capitalising on the enormous growth opportunities arising from the implementation of the National 12th Five-Year Plan and, give full play to Hong Kong’s roles and functions in the National 13th Five-Year Plan under the “One Country, Two Systems” principle.

The trading and logistics industry is a major contributor to Hong Kong’s economy. We will continue to strengthen our trade and economic relations with the Mainland and overseas countries to secure better access to their markets. In particular, we will assist our business and service industries to tap the Mainland market by taking advantage of the Mainland and Hong Kong Closer Economic Partnership Arrangement.

In maintaining Hong Kong's status as an international financial centre and the competitive edge of our financial services industry, the Government works actively to modernise the regulatory framework, strengthen investor protection and promote the diversification of services and products.

Hong Kong's economic success is built on our adherence to and respect for the rule of law. We will continue with the development of Hong Kong as an international legal and dispute resolution services centre in the Asia Pacific region, in seeking to enhance our position in the international legal, dispute resolution and business arenas.

Chapter 2

Land, Housing and Transportation

Preamble

Housing is an important livelihood issue for the public and the Government. The Government announced the new Long Term Housing Strategy in end-2014. Our policy objectives for housing are to:

- (a) assist grassroots families in securing public rental housing (PRH) to meet their basic housing needs;
- (b) assist the public in choosing accommodation according to their affordability and personal circumstances, and encourage those who can afford it to buy their own homes;
- (c) provide subsidised home ownership flats on top of PRH so as to build a progressive housing ladder; and
- (d) maintain the healthy and steady development of the private residential property market, with priority given to meeting Hong Kong permanent residents' needs amidst a tight supply situation.

Increasing land supply is fundamental to the implementation of the Long Term Housing Strategy, as well as sustaining our social and economic development. In the short to medium term, we will maintain our efforts to optimise the use of developed land through land use rezoning and increasing development density as appropriate. In the longer term, we will continue to develop new land extensively through new development areas in the New Territories and Lantau, extension of new towns, reclamation outside Victoria Harbour, rock cavern development and underground space development. We will also update the Territorial Development Strategy to formulate long-term plans and build up a land reserve that caters for Hong Kong's sustainable development and social needs. All these require our society as a whole to make difficult and tough choices and accept trade-offs.

Regarding transport, we will continue to encourage the use of public transport services and will maintain a quality and efficient multi-modal public transport network, with railway as the backbone, complemented by buses, public light buses, taxis and other modes. We will also step up our efforts in rationalising and enhancing road-based transport services in order to ease road congestion, improve service efficiency, alleviate the pressure for fare increases and reduce roadside emissions.

In addition to the remaining works that have to be completed after the partial commissioning of the West Island Line, we are taking forward the other four new railway projects in full swing. Upon their completion in phases within the next six or seven years, our railway network will cover areas where over 70% of the population in Hong Kong are residing.

We announced the Railway Development Strategy 2014 in September 2014. Our preliminary recommendation is to implement another seven new railway projects in the planning horizon up to 2031. In parallel, we will commence the Public Transport Strategy Study to systematically examine the respective roles and positioning of public transport services other than heavy rail.

To enhance Hong Kong's external transport links, we are pressing ahead with the construction of local projects of the Hong Kong-Zhuhai-Macao Bridge and the Liantang/Heung Yuen Wai Boundary Control Point project, and pursuing with the Airport Authority the planning for expanding our airport into a three-runway system.

Chapter 3

Poverty Alleviation and Support for the Disadvantaged

Preamble

The Commission on Poverty (CoP) will continue to consider policies and measures in its new term to prevent and alleviate poverty and social exclusion, as well as to promote social mobility. One of the CoP's working priorities in the future is to conduct an extensive public consultation on how retirement protection could be improved to ease poverty among the elderly. Four Task Forces have been established, focusing on supporting the underprivileged who have special needs; promoting education, employment training and other measures to enhance upward mobility of young people from grassroots families; implementing poverty alleviation and prevention measures funded by the Community Care Fund; and taking forward social innovation initiatives funded by the Social Innovation and Entrepreneurship Development Fund respectively.

There is significant improvement in the overall poverty situation in 2013, indicating that our poverty alleviation initiatives are yielding results. With the full implementation of the Old Age Living Allowance by the current-term Government, the poverty alleviation policy in 2013 produced the most notable result of the last five years. The poor population in Hong Kong dropped from 1.04 million in 2009 to 970 000 (below 1 million for the first time) in 2013. The poverty rate also dropped from 16.0% to 14.5%. The 2013 poverty statistics show that the working poor is still the group that deserves Government's priority attention. The Low-income Working Family Allowance is now in the pipeline, and will provide low-income families, particularly those with children, with financial support.

As regards those disadvantaged members of the community who cannot support themselves, we will continue to meet their basic living needs through the Comprehensive Social Security Assistance Scheme, which acts as a safety net of last resort. Regarding those who are capable of work, education, training and employment support will be enhanced to enable them to share the benefits of economic growth. To help address intergenerational poverty, we will ensure that children and young people enjoy opportunities to quality education and training irrespective of their background.

We will strengthen the support for persons or families with special needs, including persons with disabilities, mental patients and ex-mentally ill persons, ethnic minorities, and single parents and their families. The aim is to remove the barriers that hold them back from realising their potential. We will continue to develop client-centred, family-focused and community-based services that provide integrated and cross-sectoral support.

Chapter 4

Medical Services, Public Health and Elderly Care

Preamble

Hong Kong has a quality healthcare system supported by a team of highly professional healthcare workers. Our public and private medical sectors provide a full range of diversified services, including a low-cost public healthcare “safety net” that ensures no one in Hong Kong is denied medical care due to a lack of means.

We will seek to ensure the sustainability of our healthcare system through a series of reform measures, including the promotion of long-term development of primary care and Chinese medicine, proposed introduction of the Voluntary Health Insurance Scheme, revamp of the regulatory regime for private healthcare facilities and implementation of the electronic health record programme.

In face of the challenges brought about by an ageing population and the changes in the prevalence of diseases, we will uphold our commitment to providing quality and affordable public healthcare services. We will increase the capacity of the healthcare system on the one hand and enhance service quality on the other, through service and infrastructure development.

The Government is committed to building and maintaining a healthy community. We devote a lot of efforts to ensure that the wide variety of food available for consumption is safe, and the public at large are free from threats of animal diseases. We also work tirelessly to provide a clean and hygienic environment, and remain vigilant in taking actions to prevent and control diseases.

As Hong Kong turns rapidly into an ageing society, development of elderly care services has become even more important. Our objective is to enable our senior citizens to live in dignity and to provide the necessary support for them to promote their sense of belonging, security and worthiness. We will continue to implement a host of measures and initiatives to enhance elderly care on all fronts.

For the frail elderly, we strive to provide quality and cost-effective long-term care services in line with our policy of promoting “ageing in place as the core, institutional care as back-up”. In this respect, we will strengthen and expand community and home care services whilst at the same time increase and enhance subsidised residential care services. We will also carry on with our efforts to provide support services for carers of the elderly.

Chapter 5

Environment and Conservation

Preamble

Sustainable development requires a proper balance among environmental protection, heritage conservation, economic development and providing for social needs.

This Administration has mapped out clear targets and work plans for improving air quality and waste management in two published blueprints. We are committed to achieving the targets in the blueprints through implementation of various measures and programmes in proactive partnership with various sectors.

For conserving our natural environment and fulfilling our commitment under the United Nations Convention on Biological Diversity, we are developing a Biodiversity Strategy and Action Plan for Hong Kong.

To combat climate change, we have introduced various initiatives to achieve higher energy efficiency and promote a less carbon intensive lifestyle.

To make Hong Kong a better city for all, we will continue to enhance infrastructure to provide a safe and quality living environment. At the same time, we will improve the greening, landscape and tree management regime by adopting a holistic and professional approach and engaging stakeholders under the Be Our Greening Partner Campaign.

We wish to preserve the city's charm while respecting the need for development. We will actively consider how the recommendations of the Antiquities Advisory Board on reviewing the built heritage conservation policy could be implemented as soon as possible.

Chapter 6

Education, Population and Human Resources

Preamble

People are our most precious resource, providing the impetus for the continued social and economic development of Hong Kong. The Steering Committee on Population Policy, led by the Chief Secretary for Administration, has adopted the following objective for our population policy after a four-month public engagement exercise: "To develop and nurture a population that will continuously support and drive Hong Kong's socio-economic development as Asia's world city, and to engender a socially inclusive and cohesive society that allows individuals to realise their potential, with a view to attaining quality life for all residents and families". Building on existing policies, a series of initiatives have been formulated to take forward this policy objective and meet the challenges brought about by the changing demographic structure.

The issue of manpower is one of quantity and quality. We will give priority to nurture local talent, which starts with education. The Committee on Free Kindergarten Education is studying the practicable way of achieving the objective of implementing free kindergarten education. The Committee is expected to make its recommendations in 2015. Primary and secondary education is an important stage for students to accumulate knowledge, develop personal character and equip themselves for challenges ahead. We will enhance the support for secondary schools to provide life planning and career guidance services to help young people better understand themselves and plan for their future. At the same time, we will provide flexible and diversified study and articulation pathways with multiple entry and exit points, and promote continuing learning so as to equip young people in pursuing their dreams and strengthening their confidence in the future. We will provide more opportunities for young people to enrol on quality post-secondary programmes, and further develop and promote vocational education and training to cater for their diversified interests.

Apart from the school, support and nurturing from the family is pivotal to the development of young people. Therefore, we must strengthen the family and make it one of the core values of the community. We will collaborate with various sectors in the community to create a family friendly culture and enhance the functions of families. We will also promote family-friendly employment practices to help employees achieve a balance between work and family life, and implement the newly enacted legislation that provides paternity leave for eligible male employees.

Promoting employment of local workers and protecting workers' rights and benefits have always been our priority. We will continue providing recruitment and employment services for job seekers with different employment needs. We accept the recommendation made by the Minimum Wage Commission to increase the Statutory Minimum Wage rate by 8.3% from $30 per hour to $32.5 per hour. Subject to the approval of LegCo, the proposal will be implemented from 1 May 2015. We take rigorous enforcement actions against violation of labour laws and will continue to facilitate informed and in-depth discussion on the way forward for the working hours policy.

New Initiatives

We will:

Population Policy

- (a) Adhering to a Direction of Sustainable Development
  - Align with the objectives of our population policy from the perspectives of creating capacity for better quality of life, enhancing economic competitiveness and developing in a sustainable manner when updating the HK2030 Study (published in 2007) and examining the strategy and possible options for the development of Hong Kong beyond 2030. (DEVB)
  - Develop high value-added industries to broaden our economic base and provide new areas of economic growth. This will also give the young generation a wide variety of job opportunities with good prospects. (All relevant bureaux)
- (b) Extending Working Life
  - In mid-2015, raise the retirement age for new recruits to the civilian grades to 65 and that for the disciplined services grades to 60, and formulate flexible measures for extending the service of serving civil servants so as to enable the Government, as an employer, to take early actions to address the challenges arising from an ageing population and provide flexibility for meeting the manpower needs of departments taking into account their different operational and succession needs. (CSB)

- In line with the Government's arrangement of extending the retirement age of civil service new recruits, encourage other employers, in particular public and subvented organisations, to implement appropriate measures according to their own circumstances to extend the working life of their employees. We will also review the existing welfare arrangements to see if they have the effect of disincentives for older persons to continue working. (All relevant bureaux)
  - Propose to suitably relax the upper age limit for Category B Security Personnel Permits (now at 65) after a review of the age restrictions set out in the permit issuing criteria issued under the Security and Guarding Services Ordinance. (SB)
  - Under the Education Ordinance, the retirement age of aided school teachers and principals within the approved establishment is 60 unless special permission is given. Following the extension of retirement age of newly recruited civil servants, including the government school teachers, we shall discuss with relevant educational bodies whether and if so how this revised policy should be extended to aided schools with a view to meeting the manpower needs of Hong Kong and the education sector. (EDB)

(c) Enhancing Employment Support for Elderly People

- Promote the employment of elderly persons by enhancing the employment support services for elderly job seekers and encouraging employers to build an elderly-friendly working environment through publicity. (LWB)

- Continue to provide on-the-job training allowance of $3,000 per month for employers for a period of three to six months under the Employment Programme for the Middle-aged, so as to give employers financial incentive to employ elderly persons. We will extend the programme to cover part-time jobs in the second half of 2015. (LWB)
- Explain the points-to-note of taking out employees' compensation insurance policies (EC insurance, or commonly known as "labour insurance policies") to employers to allay their concern over difficulties in taking out such policies for elderly employees. We will also promote the Employees' Compensation Insurance Residual Scheme as a market of last resort to employers having difficulties in securing EC insurance. (FSTB/LWB)
- Amongst other target groups, the Employees Retraining Board (ERB) will focus on providing training for the elderly in the future, and help elderly people rejoin the job market. The ERB will conduct a market research on elderly or retired persons and employers to understand elders' views on continuing employment as well as employers' opinions on hiring elderly or retired persons. The ERB will also explore suitable types of work for these people and launch training courses on a pilot basis. (LWB)

(d) Supporting Women in Fulfilling Work and Family Commitments

- Provide in phases about 5 000 additional places of Extended Hours Service at aided child care centres and kindergarten-cum-child care centres in districts with high demand from 2015-16 onwards so that more pre-primary children in need (aged below six) can continue to receive extended hours of service in the same service units being attended by them, with a view to alleviating the pressure on their working parents. (LWB)
- Provide in 2017-18 about 100 additional aided long full-day child care places for children aged below three. (LWB)
- Invite NGOs to establish work-based child care centres through the Special Scheme on Privately Owned Sites for Welfare Uses. Two NGOs have responded positively, proposing that a total of about 100 self-financing places to be provided. Besides, the Government will explore the feasibility of providing in the proposed Government Complex in Tseung Kwan O, on a pilot basis, 100 NGO-operated child care places for staff members. (LWB)
- Provide resources for aided standalone child care centres and units providing Occasional Child Care Service and Extended Hours Service, so as to enhance supervisory and administrative support. (LWB)

- Consider actively ways to encourage kindergartens to offer more whole-day services to support working parents and explore the feasibility of providing additional subsidies for families in need through the Committee on Free Kindergarten Education of the Education Bureau. (EDB)
- Commission a consultancy study in 2015-16 to advise on the long-term development of child care services. (LWB)
- Launch a pilot project to help grandparents become well-trained child carers in a home setting, with a view to reinforcing support for nuclear families. (LWB)
- The ERB will enhance the training and employment services for women to help them rejoin the job market. (LWB)
- Keep updating the Women Employment website, which was launched in October 2014, to provide information on employment services, child and elderly care support services and training programmes for working women and women who are ready to join the job market. (LWB)
- Step up the promotion of family-friendly employment practices in the community through the Family Council. The Labour Department (LD) will also enhance publicity and education efforts to encourage employers to adopt such practices so as to help employees achieve a balance between work and family life. (HAB/LWB)

- Set an example on the part of the Government as a good employer by implementing more family-friendly employment practices for other employers to follow. Apart from considering to offer more part-time positions on non-civil service contract terms, the Government, subject to exigencies of the service and sufficient personal grounds, will also continue with the existing arrangements of giving priority and sympathetic consideration to leave applications, including unpaid leave, on family care grounds. (CSB)
  - (e) Providing Better Support for Young People to Start a Family
    - Review the child allowance under salaries tax in the coming Budget. (FSTB)
    - Meet the housing needs of the public, including young married couples, by providing more PRH and subsidised sale flats, and maintaining the steady development of the private property market. On PRH, we will encourage young married couples to live with or near their elderly parents through the Harmonious Families Priority Scheme, with a view to promoting mutual care among family members, including the elders' assistance in taking care of young children. (THB)
    - Study practicable ways to implement 15-year free education through the Committee on Free Kindergarten Education. The Committee is going to submit a report on its study to the Government in May this year. Implementing the policy concerned will help alleviate the financial burden on young couples. (EDB)

- Step up the effort to promote the family core values of “Love and Care”, “Respect and Responsibility” and “Communication and Harmony” as well as the positive messages and values on family formation through the Family Council, including commissioning a study on “Parenting Practices in Hong Kong” to identify the impact of different parenting practices on family life and the introduction of family education package for families with new-born babies. (HAB)
- Consider enhancing collaboration among hospitals in various clusters through the Hospital Authority to improve the waiting time for assisted reproductive technology services. (FHB)
- Strengthen the promotion of breastfeeding and encourage the provision of more breastfeeding facilities in the community through the Committee on Promotion of Breastfeeding under the Food and Health Bureau, with a view to enhancing sustained breastfeeding and promoting breastfeeding as a norm widely accepted by the general public for baby care. (FHB)

(f) Building an Inclusive Society

- Keep in view the implementation of the One-Way Permit Scheme and maintain effective communication with the Mainland authorities for the orderly entry of eligible Mainland residents into Hong Kong for family union. (SB)
- The ERB will help different social groups seek employment and integrate into the community through offering new courses and support services geared towards their needs. The specific measures include –

- organising skills training courses (such as physiotherapy courses) to attract enrolment of new arrivals with higher academic qualifications or professional experience; (LWB)
  - conducting courses in the support centres for EMs under the Home Affairs Department on a pilot basis to facilitate attendance of EMs; (LWB)

  - providing more in-demand programmes under the Modular Certificates Accumulation System to enable trainees to obtain full-time course certificates upon completion of a number of specified half-day or evening courses. This will allow trainees who are unable to pursue full-time courses due to work or family commitments to make flexible arrangement for further studies and acquire recognised qualifications. (LWB)
- Accept the Social Enterprise Advisory Committee's recommendation for implementing a new scheme to provide subsidies for social enterprises and NGOs, which will offer a total of about 2 000 to 3 000 on-site training places for persons with disabilities and other groups in need, including the elderly and EMs, to enhance their employment prospect. We will also strengthen the support platforms for social enterprises and step up publicity and public education. (HAB)

- Improve the employment opportunities of persons with disabilities through –
  - enhancing the follow-up service provided by the LD for job seekers with disabilities after placement by extending the service period from three to six months so as to strengthen the support for employers and help employees with disabilities adapt to their work. It is estimated that over 2 000 persons with disabilities will benefit from this measure each year; (LWB) and
  - exploring the implementation of a pilot project under the Lotteries Fund for trained ex-mentally ill persons to serve as peer supporters to provide support and encouragement for other persons in rehabilitation through sharing their recovery experience. (LWB)
- Earmark $223 million for extending the Integrated Employment Assistance Programme for Self-reliance for two years and engage NGOs to provide employment assistance services for employable able-bodied CSSA recipients. In addition to increasing the number of examination sittings, consideration will be given to introducing more flexibility into the internship arrangements to encourage qualified overseas doctors to practise in Hong Kong. Meanwhile, we will consider increasing the number of publicly-funded degree places in medicine, dentistry and other health disciplines in the next funding cycle for universities. (FHB)

(h) Importation of Labour

- Optimise the use and development of local workforce through training and retraining. We will continue to organise large-scale, district-based and thematic job fairs regularly in collaboration with employers from different sectors and through the two recruitment centres specific for the retail and catering sectors. Job seekers can submit job applications and attend interviews on the spot. Meanwhile, we will import labour on an appropriate, limited and targeted basis to relieve the manpower shortage of these sectors while giving priority to locals in employment. (LWB)

Chapter 7

Youth, Sport, Arts and Culture

Preamble

Young people are precious assets of our society and our future. Our youth development policy will focus on creating opportunities for them and helping them realise their potential, so that they may bring what they have learnt into play and seek advancement. We will continue to partner with relevant NGOs to foster a culture of multi-faceted excellence and offer multiple avenues for young people to pursue their studies, career and interests.

Engaging the Commission on Youth, uniformed groups and NGOs, we aim to enhance our networking with young people, and help them develop positive values and find their own direction and position.

The Government's policy for developing sport in Hong Kong is threefold — to promote sport in the community, to support elite sport, and to maintain Hong Kong as a centre for major international sports events. Underlying this policy is the view that participation in sport contributes significantly to good physical and psychological health, and provides a basis for social interaction and a sense of belonging to the community.

On culture and the arts, our vision is to develop Hong Kong into an international cultural metropolis with a distinct identity grounded in Chinese traditions and enriched by different cultures. We provide opportunities for wide participation in culture and the arts, and offer chances to those with potentials to develop their artistic talents. We support the preservation and promotion of our traditional cultures (including intangible cultural heritage) while encouraging artistic creation and innovation, developing Hong Kong into a prominent hub of cultural exchanges. We will continue to strengthen our cultural software to tie in with the development of the West Kowloon Cultural District (WKCD).

Preamble

The rule of law is vital for safeguarding our rights and freedoms. It is also instrumental in promoting our long-term development as an international financial and commercial centre. We will continue to perfect our legal system and enhance our legal infrastructure to ensure that justice is upheld.

Law and order is the cornerstone of a stable society. Our disciplined services are firmly committed to maintaining Hong Kong as one of the safest cities in the world. We also provide quality emergency rescue services to protect the life and property of our people.

On constitutional development, the Decision of the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress (NPCSC) on Issues Relating to the Selection of the Chief Executive of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region (CE) by Universal Suffrage and on the Method for Forming the Legislative Council of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region in the Year 2016 (the Decision) was adopted on 31 August 2014. The Decision formally determines that universal suffrage for the CE election through "one person, one vote" may be implemented starting from 2017. After the election of the CE by universal suffrage, the election of all members of the LegCo may be implemented by the method of universal suffrage. We will take forward Hong Kong's constitutional development in accordance with the Basic Law and the relevant Interpretation and Decisions of the NPCSC.

We have strengthened the support for DCs to help them play an enhanced role in resolving district issues, participating in the management of some district facilities, and implementing District Minor Works Programme and community involvement activities.
