LC Paper No. CB(2)1315/16-17(03)

Dear Chairman,

The Government advises that support is provided to Ethnic Minorities, but no one really know where to find the support. Money is spent, but not on real issues.

Is this the failure of the Government not understanding the real needs of the Ethnic Minorities or is the Government not spending money effectively.

The public members invited to the advisory boards are either elites, or recommended by certain pro-government political parties or government high official friends circle, who do not understand the real needs of the grassroots.

Why the ethnic minorities find so difficult to access to information, employment, health care, and even the basic needs of housing and banking?

What is wrong with Hong Kong? Why ethnic minorities do not seem to have so many issues before 1997? Why is discrimination against ethnic minorities on the rise? Is the government promoting any agenda against the ethnic minorities?

Does the government really want to hear to the needs of ethnic minorities or just make a show?
