Dear sirs,

I had a discussion with a friend over the weekend regarding the issue of ivory trade being banned in Hong Kong, and the fear of this being limited or overhauled.

I would like to state, that despite the nature of the business I am in (shipping, import / export) I have heavily in favour of the ban for the betterment of Hong Kong (having been born and brought up in Hong Kong).

Please continue to good work HK has shown to lead the way by banning the import and refuse and compensation which would only fuel a secondary market to trade ivory before the ban.

Kind regards,
