

Ivory ban
Sing Tek CINDY NG to: panel_ea

05/06/2017 08:42

Dear Legislative Council,

I strongly believe in the HK government's ivory ban.

If we hunt elephants for ivory, it could cause a terrible problem. For example, the food chain. You may know the food chain, the animals in the food chain are a part of an ecosystem, and elephants are part of this too!

Secondly, the people who sell the elephants tusks. They get more money every time they sell more, so they may become used to it, and money makes them want to sell more!

Elephants may even become extinct! So please let the HK government ban the ivory! and the death of the elephants.

I agree the HK government's proposed increase in penalties for wildlife crime.

Just like people who hunt for the tusks and sell them they should have this kind of punishment, and they should also give money to the government.

I have heard that there are actually warehouses in HK that have 5 yrs of ivory stocks hidden! So if the government could send some people out and find these warehouses, then please do that!

I also disagree with the HK government paying compensation to the HK ivory traders for their ivory stocks because of my above comments.