

Dear LEGCO,

I support that the government of Hong Kong banning ivory and not extending the time limit for the ban to begin for five years. I strongly believe that elephants are innocent and do not deserved to be killed.

I am certain that elephants don't want to be killed, also other animals which have ivory. People are greedy and want money but they don't care about the animals.

Elephant's and other animals are going to become extinct and elephants are very popular. Imagine if you are an elephant, and you get killed simply because people just want your tusks.

Your sincerely,
