

ban the ivory trade in Hong Kong

Sarah Turner to: undisclosed-recipients;;
Please respond to Sarah Turner

04/06/2017 22:56

Dear sir or madam,

I support the government's ban on the import, export, possession of and sale of ivory, and the plan to increase penalties for wildlife crime.

Why :

- Hong Kong's 'legal' trade in Pre-Convention ivory has been administered through a licensing system that has provided a front for laundering illegal ivory.
- Traders have been found to replenish old ivory stocks with newly poached ivory. Without expensive scientific analysis, it's impossible to distinguish 'legal' Pre-Convention ivory from 'illegal' ivory from poaching.
- The majority of ivory stock registered with the government in the 1990s (85%) was from illegal sources.
- The global support for closing ivory markets is clear, 183 countries/ territories of CITES are unified in closing domestic markets that contribute to poaching or illegal trade in ivory.
- There is no deterrent sentencing in Hong Kong with respect to wildlife crime and penalties are minimal.

I strongly oppose any compensation for ivory traders.

Why:

- The ivory traders have been forewarned for 27 years to prepare and sell their ivory and they have an additional 5-year grace period once the legislation comes into force.
- Most traders do not rely on just ivory for their income.
- People who have speculated and stored ivory, can sell it now; they do not need to be compensated, as the proposed ban was announced 15 months ago and is not envisaged to be fully in place until December 2021.
- No other country has provided compensation and China will not do so when their ban comes into force at the end of this year.
- Compensation can motivate dishonest traders in Hong Kong to increase their ivory stock in the short term from illegal sources, before the ban becomes effective, thus increasing future compensation payments and fuelling poaching.
- This will also immediately send a signal to the the illegal ivory trade that there is a finite period between the legislation passing and coming in to force, where they can poach ivory to supply the Hong Kong trade - thus again fuelling poaching.
- Public funds, should not be made available to any industries or trades which are adversely affected by changes in economic or commercial circumstances when they have been repeatedly forewarned over decades.

Ivory poaching has reached unprecedented levels driven by demand in Asia. Hong Kong is a gateway. If nothing is done to deter poaching, the African elephant will become extinct in our lifetime. YOU can help to prevent this tragedy from happening by banning the ivory trade and refusing to compensate those who have traded in ivory. Please do the right thing.

Respectfully yours,

Sarah Turner

North Point, HK