13. Abolition of the common law offence of champerty

At the Panel meeting on 25 March 2014, members were briefed by DoJ on the recent developments of the common law offences of maintenance and champerty in Hong Kong and the Administration's position in relation to the item. Members were generally of the views that the common law offences of maintenance and champerty were outdated and should be reviewed to better suit the present day circumstances. DoJ was urged to adopt a liberal approach in addressing the issue and come up with ways to enhance access to justice for the middle-income group.

To be advised
by DoJ

On 1 September 2014, a member requested the Panel to discuss the issue of abolition of the common law offence of champerty again.

In June 2017, the Arbitration and Mediation Legislation (Third Party Funding) (Amendment) Ordinance 2017 was enacted to clarify that third-party funding for arbitration and mediation is not prohibited by the common law doctrines of maintenance and champerty, and to provide for related measures and safeguards. Following the issuance of the Code of Practice for Third Party Funding of Arbitration by the Secretary for Justice in her capacity as the statutory authorized body on 7 December 2018, those provisions of the Ordinance which govern third party funding of arbitration have come into effect on 1 February 2019. The remaining provisions on third party funding of mediation will commence on a future date to be decided following further consultation with the relevant stakeholders.

In view of the complexity of the issues involved in the proposed abolition of the common law offences of champerty and maintenance in Hong Kong, including those regarding the practice of recovery agents and litigation funding companies, and given the fundamental difference between litigation and consensual dispute resolution (arbitration and mediation), DoJ considers that a cautious approach should be adopted in respect of third party funding for litigation, which should only be considered after experience is gained from the operation of the Arbitration and Mediation Legislation (Third Party Funding) (Amendment) Ordinance 2017.

14. Recovery of costs in pro bono cases

To be advised
by DEVB

The Development Bureau ("DEVB") advised the Secretariat on 17 November 2015 that it planned to report the progress of the post-enactment review of the LTO to this Panel and the Panel on Development when the full package of necessary legislative proposed amendments to LTO was available.

To enable early implementation of title registration system in Hong Kong, DEVB is actively pursuing the proposal of implementing title registration on newly granted land first ("new land first" proposal). DEVB has been engaging major stakeholders through meetings of the LTO Steering Committee and the LTO Review Committee, briefing sessions and discussion meetings, etc. for seeking a consensus on the major issues for implementing the "new land first" proposal. The full package of necessary legislative amendments would only be available subject to a consensus on these major issues being reached with the major stakeholders and in consultation with the LTO Steering Committee and the LTO Review Committee.

In view of the complexity of the issues involved, it would be difficult for DEVB to commit to a definite timeframe for report to members on the package of necessary legislative amendments at this stage; but DEVB and the Panel Clerk will keep in touch with each other should there be any update to such timeframe.
