Panel on Administration of Justice and Legal Services

Meeting on 22 June 2020

Updated background brief on the implementation of the recommendations made by the Law Reform Commission of Hong Kong

Purpose

This paper provides updated background information regarding the implementation of recommendations made by the Law Reform Commission of Hong Kong ("LRC"). It also summarizes the major views and concerns expressed by Legislative Council ("LegCo") Members on the above and related subjects in recent years.

Background

2. The remit of LRC, which is a non-statutory advisory body established in 1980, is to consider for reform such aspects of the law as are referred to it by the Secretary for Justice ("SJ") (who is the ex officio Chairman of LRC) or the Chief Justice (who is also an ex officio member of LRC). The aim of any LRC reference is to consider the law in a specified area and, where appropriate, present well considered proposals to the Administration.

Mechanism to monitor the implementation of the recommendations made by the Law Reform Commission of Hong Kong

3. Arising from the public concern about the delays in implementing the LRC proposals, the Director of Administration issued a set of guidelines in October 2011 under which bureaux and departments having policy responsibility over any LRC report are required to provide at least an interim response within six months of publication of the report and a detailed public response within 12 months of its publication. The interim report should set out a clear timetable for completion of the detailed response and the steps taken so far. Bureaux and departments are required to give full consideration to LRC's recommendations and provide a detailed public response setting out which recommendations they accept, reject or intend to implement in modified form.

4. At the meeting of the Panel on Administration of Justice and Legal Services ("the AJLS Panel") on 20 December 2011, members discussed the role and work of LRC. They were concerned that with long delay in implementation, the validity and relevance of LRC's recommendations were likely to be diminished and the efforts wasted. To ensure that LRC's recommendations would be implemented without undue delay, the AJLS Panel proposed for the endorsement of the House Committee the following mechanism for monitoring the Administration's progress in implementing LRC's recommendations:

- (a) SJ to submit to the AJLS Panel for discussion an annual report flagging up the progress in respect of the LRC reports which had not yet been implemented, say, after the Policy Address in each year;
- (b) the AJLS Panel to copy the annual report to the relevant Panel to facilitate their follow-up with bureaux and departments having policy responsibility over the respective LRC reports; and
- (c) the relevant Panels to include the Administration's responses to the respective LRC reports in their list of outstanding items for discussion, and to invite members of the AJLS Panel and all other Members to join the future discussion.

5. The mechanism was endorsed by the House Committee at its meeting on 2 March 2012. Pursuant to the above mechanism, SJ submitted seven annual reports to the AJLS Panel at its meetings on 25 June 2013, 27 May 2014, 20 July 2015, 23 May 2016, 26 June 2017, 25 June 2018 and 24 June 2019.

Latest implementation progress of the recommendations made by the Law Reform Commission of Hong Kong

6. According to SJ's last annual report to the AJLS Panel in June 2019,<sup>1</sup> a total of 66 reports have been published by LRC since 1 January 1982. With one report recommending no change to the law,<sup>2</sup> the remaining 65 reports are categorized according to their implementation status as follows:

- (a) proposals implemented in full (35 reports, 53.9% of the 65 reports);
- (b) proposals implemented in part (eight reports, 12.3% of the 65 reports);
- (c) proposals under consideration or in the process of being implemented (16 reports, 24.6% of the 65 reports);
- (d) proposals rejected outright by the Administration (three reports, 4.6% of the 65 reports); and
- (e) the Administration has no plan to implement the proposals at this juncture (three reports, 4.6% of the 65 reports).

Projects under study by the Law Reform Commission of Hong Kong

7. At present, there are seven ongoing projects under study by LRC on, namely, review of sexual offences; causing or allowing the death of a child or vulnerable adult; archives law; access to information; periodical payments for future pecuniary loss in personal injury cases; cybercrime and outcome related fee structures for arbitration. LRC has published the consultation papers for the first five projects and has briefed the AJLS Panel on such papers. The consultation period for consultation papers of LRC usually lasts for three months. The relevant sub-committees of LRC will take into account the responses received in the consultation exercise before finalizing the proposal(s), if any is needed, for submitting their reports to the full LRC for consideration. LRC considers the sub-committees' reports in detail, assisted by chairman and members of the relevant sub-committees, before issuing a final LRC report.

Major views and concerns of Legislative Council Members

8. Major views and concerns expressed by LegCo Members on the implementation of the recommendations made by LRC are summarized in the ensuing paragraphs.

<sup>2</sup> Report on "The procedure governing the admissibility of confession statements in criminal proceedings" published in July 2000.

Implementation progress of the recommendations made by the Law Reform Commission of Hong Kong

9. Undue delay in the implementation of LRC's recommendations by the Administration has been an on-going concern to LegCo Members. During the deliberations of the annual reports as mentioned in paragraph 5 above at the AJLS Panel meetings, some members expressed concerns that the Administration had spent a long time in considering LRC's recommendations made in its various reports, and the recommendations would become out of date due to the lapse of time. They were also worried that the delay in implementing those recommendations would hinder the local legislation system from keeping up with the global trend as well as the system's overall development.

10. In view of the above, the Administration was urged to expeditiously implement LRC's recommendations on various reports, and accord higher priority to those recommendations which the public had consensus on and were related to the people's livelihood or commercial in nature. There was also a suggestion that the Administration should establish benchmarks and indicators to monitor the implementation progress of LRC's recommendations.

11. The Administration responded that it had followed up concerns on the need to expedite the implementation process. LRC also attached importance to monitoring the progress on implementation, and it had been made a regular item of the LRC meetings for monitoring the situation. However, in light of the policy and practical implications of the issues involved, the Administration encountered various difficulties in implementing some of the recommendations.

Resources for the Law Reform Commission of Hong Kong

12. Noting that the LRC members were working on a voluntary basis, some members of the AJLS Panel opined that the inadequacy in manpower resources in LRC might have prolonged the consultation process and the study of legislative proposals. In this regard, they suggested that the Administration should consider seeking funding to enhance the manpower resources and the working efficiency of LRC and engage more full-time members and staff with professional legal knowledge to support the work of LRC. With a view to expediting the law reform process in Hong Kong, some members also suggested the Administration allocate more resources to expand LRC and its Secretariat.

13. At the AJLS Panel meeting on 20 December 2017, SJ briefed members on the preliminary outcome of the LRC study to review the law reform process with a view to exploring possible options to enhance the efficiency and operation of LRC.

14. In the short-run, maintaining the current LRC and sub-committee structure and enhancing support to the LRC Secretariat was LRC's preferred option. In the long-run, LRC proposed that establishing a fully independent statutory law reform body should be considered as a longer term goal of the Administration. At the same meeting, SJ also advised that concrete proposals on increasing the staffing resources required for the LRC Secretariat and briefing out of research study projects (where appropriate) would be made after consolidating the views of the AJLS Panel, LRC and the relevant bureaux.

Functions of the Law Reform Commission of Hong Kong

15. At the Panel meeting on 24 June 2019, some members expressed concerns about the mechanism for referring subjects to LRC for study, and the principle adopted by the Administration to determine whether a project on law reform would be referred to LRC or would be taken up by government bureaux and departments.

16. SJ replied that there was no hard and fast rule as to whether a project to review the law should be referred to LRC or taken forward by government bureaux and departments. As the circumstances and scope of a comprehensive law reform project conducted by LRC might be much wider than those of a single government bureau and department proposing amendments to a piece of the existing legislation, it was not appropriate to draw a direct comparison between the work of LRC and a legislative amendment exercise conducted by a single government bureau and department.

Implementation status of specific projects of the Law Reform Commission of Hong Kong

Report on "Arrest" published in November 1992

17. In response to a member's concern raised at the AJLS Panel meeting on 23 May 2016 about the implementation progress of the recommendations made in the LRC report on "Arrest", SJ responded that more than half of the endorsed recommendations made in that report had been implemented by the Security Bureau. It was reviewing some of the proposals in light of the changes in United Kingdom's Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984 and local enforcement experiences with a view to determining the way forward.

18. At the Council meeting of 1 November 2017, a Member raised a question on the implementation status of the LRC report on "Arrest". As it had been almost 25 years since the report was published, and as there were comments that at present, the society's demand for and expectations of human rights and conduct of law enforcement officers were higher as compared with those of the past, he asked whether the Administration would consider afresh adopting the recommendation to draw up codes of practice for police officers, as put forward in the report.

19. According to the Administration, LRC recommended that when it was necessary to amend the code of practice, the law enforcement agency should go through the legislative process regardless of how minor the proposed amendment was. The Administration considered that the code of practice should be amended frequently in light of day-to-day operational experience to ensure that it met the needs of law enforcement. LRC's recommended way of amendment would be inflexible and might affect the responsiveness of the law enforcement agency. The Administration considered the existing way of amending the code of practice through administrative means effective and should be maintained.

Report on "Privacy — Part 3: Stalking" published in October 2000

20. At the AJLS Panel meetings on 20 July 2015 and 23 May 2016, some members noted the divergent views over the implications of the recommendations made in the LRC report on "Privacy — Part 3: Stalking" on constitutional rights, including freedom of the media and freedom of expression and to protect individuals from harassment. They therefore asked whether consideration would be given to first implementing the recommendations to deal with specific problems, such as amending the Domestic and Cohabitation Relationships Violence Ordinance (Cap. 189) to deal with harassment by ex-spouses and introducing legislation against abusive debt collectors.

21. In this regard, SJ advised that the Constitutional and Mainland Affairs Bureau ("CMAB") had decided not to legislate against stalking as none of the various formulations (i.e. the respective formulation put forward by LRC and the Consultant commissioned by CMAB to study the experience of overseas jurisdictions in implementing their anti-stalking legislation and the "specified relations" approach) was supported by members of the Panel on Constitutional Affairs, the major stakeholders or the public, as being able to achieve the objective of providing protection to all people alike against stalking, whilst at the same time avoiding interference with the freedoms of the press and expression. However, at the AJLS Panel meeting on 25 June 2018, there was a view that the Administration should continue to closely monitor the need to introduce anti-stalking legislation to criminalize stalking in Hong Kong as well as the overseas experience of implementing anti-stalking legislation.

Report on "The regulation of debt collection practices" published in July 2002

22. At the past AJLS Panel meetings and Council meetings, Members enquired whether the Administration would consider afresh accepting the recommendations in the LRC report on "The regulation of debt collection practices" published in 2002 that a criminal offence of harassment of debtors and others should be created, and that a statutory licensing system to regulate debt collection agencies should be established.

23. The Administration responded that in September 2005, the Security Bureau, upon thorough consideration, gave a detailed response to the abovementioned LRC report. With regard to the recommendation to enact a new criminal offence provision to regulate debt collection practices, the Administration considered that there were various prevailing legal provisions, including the Crimes Ordinance (Cap. 200), Theft Ordinance (Cap. 210), Offences Against the Person Ordinance (Cap. 212), Summary Offences Ordinance (Cap. 228), Societies Ordinance (Cap. 151) and Post Office Ordinance (Cap. 98), to specifically guard against different kinds of illegal debt collection practices, such as splashing paint, jamming of door locks with glue, mailing of letters with threatening statements or "paper money for the dead", threatening by visits, etc. The Administration was of the view that there was no need to introduce new criminal offence provisions with respect to the operation of debt collection agencies.

Report on "Class actions" published in May 2012

24. At the previous AJLS Panel meetings, special Finance Committee meetings and Council meetings, Members expressed concerns about the work progress of the cross-sector Working Group which was set up by the Department of Justice to study LRC's proposals of introducing a class action regime in Hong Kong. They asked whether a legislative proposal would be submitted to LegCo in this regard. There was also an enquiry whether the said Working Group would submit an interim or preliminary report for discussion by the AJLS Panel on the advantages and disadvantages of introducing a class action regime in Hong Kong, given that LRC had made recommendations in its report in 2012.

25. According to the information provided by the Administration in April 2019, the cross-sector Working Group established by the Department of Justice was still studying and considering the LRC report on "Class Actions". As at 17 April 2019, the Working Group had held 25 meetings since its inception while a sub-committee set up under the working group had met 30 times. The study was progressing well, but the subject of class actions involved wide-ranging, complex and interrelated issues covering not only technical issues in law but also policy considerations. In relation to these two aspects, there was still room for modifications regarding the details from the implementation angle, and time was required for more in-depth analysis.

26. As regards the types of cases under study, the Administration further advised that the Working Group was mainly considering the LRC report's recommendation to introduce a class action regime starting with consumer claims. In the course of the study, the Working Group would continue to note and draw reference from the developments in those overseas jurisdictions which had introduced a class action regime as regards its implementation by the courts and the use of non-litigation means to resolve disputes. Upon completion of the study, the Working Group would put forward its recommendations for the Administration to consider and map out the way forward. Although there was not yet a specific timetable for public consultation, the secretariat of the Working Group had started compiling a draft consultation document in parallel based on the research papers and deliberations of the Working Group.

Report on "Adverse possession" published in October 2014

27. When discussing the implementation of the recommendations made by LRC at the AJLS Panel meeting on 26 June 2017 and 25 June 2018, some members called for the Administration to speed up the implementation of LRC's recommendations relating to adverse possession as the provisions on adverse possession might be unfair to some registered owners. Nonetheless, there was also a view that the main justification for adverse possession was to protect persons who had long uninterrupted occupation of a land from stale claims and to encourage owners not to sleep on their rights. As such, when considering the issues of adverse possession, the Administration should strike an appropriate balance between protecting the rights of the registered owners and the occupants.

28. In response, SJ explained that as the topic was complex and controversial, and the stakeholders had diverse views on aspects of the implementation of LRC's recommendations, the Administration needed to study and consider the recommendations carefully. SJ also said that LRC would follow up with the Development Bureau accordingly.

Report on "Voyeurism and Non-consensual Upskirt-photography" published in April 2019

29. At the Council meeting of 8 May 2019 and the AJLS Panel meeting on 24 June 2019, Members expressed concern about the impacts brought about by the Court of Final Appeal's judgment on an appeal case handed down on 4 April 2019 in relation to section 161 of Cap. 200 ("the CFA's Judgment"). They considered that the CFA's Judgment would make it difficult for the Police to invoke section 161 of Cap. 200 to institute prosecutions against persons who took photographs clandestinely with their own mobile phones in a private place. With a view to plugging such a loophole, Members urged the Administration to commence the relevant legislative process for making of a new offence as early as practicable.

30. SJ responded that in respect of the offence of voyeurism, LRC had released the report on "Voyeurism and non-consensual upskirt-photography"<sup>3</sup> on 30 April 2019. She said that the Security Bureau welcomed LRC's recommendations and indicated that it would carefully study and follow up on the report. At the Security Panel to be held on 7 July 2020, the Administration would brief members on the proposed introduction of offences on voyeurism and non-consensual photography of intimate parts, and related offences.

Progress of ongoing projects under study by the Law Reform Commission of Hong Kong

31. In response to Members' concerns about the CFA's Judgment as mentioned in paragraph 29, the Administration advised that in light of the rapid development associated with information technology, computer and the Internet, coupled with the potential for them to be exploited for carrying out criminal activities, an LRC sub-committee commenced its study on the topic of cybercrime in January 2019. In the course of its study, the sub-committee would identify the challenges arising from such rapid developments, review existing legislation and other relevant measures, examine relevant developments in other jurisdictions and recommend possible law reforms (if any). The Security Bureau would continue to closely monitor the progress of the sub-committee's study.

32. At the Council meeting of 30 October 2019, a Member asked about the progress of the review on causing or allowing the death or serious harm of a child or vulnerable adult conducted by a sub-committee of LRC. In response,

<sup>3</sup> According to LRC's website, the report follows a study on the overall review of substantive sexual offences by LRC's Review of Sexual Offences Sub-committee, which issued three consultation papers in September 2012, November 2016 and May 2018 respectively. Noting the strong sentiments received in the consultation exercises and the imminent need for the introduction of these new offences, it was decided that it would be to the benefit of the community to expeditiously publish the report ahead of the remaining work of the Sub-committee. The responses to the consultation papers have been taken into account in formulating the final recommendation as regards voyeurism and non-consensual upskirt-photography.

the Administration advised that a public consultation on the proposed new offence of "failure to protect" had been conducted from May to August 2019. It was understood that the above sub-committee would collate and consider carefully the views collected from the public consultation with a view to submitting the final recommendations to LRC as soon as practicable.

Suggested projects for the Law Reform Commission of Hong Kong

33. At the AJLS Panel meeting on 24 June 2019, some members suggested LRC conduct a review of the Public Order Ordinance (Cap. 245) and relevant matters, study the possibility of introducing anti-mask law and legislation against the offence of insulting public officers in Hong Kong, as well as review the Personal Data (Privacy) Ordinance (Cap. 486). Besides, members passed a motion, urging LRC to conduct a comprehensive review on Cap. 245 and make appropriate amendments to ensure that the offences provided for should be compatible with human rights safeguards. In its response to the motion, LRC informed members that as Cap. 245 fell under the policy purview of the Security Bureau, which was responsible for security-related policies, the Security Bureau would consider whether it was necessary to review or amend Cap. 245 as and when appropriate.

Latest position

34. Pursuant to the mechanism mentioned in paragraph 4, SJ will submit the eighth annual report, setting out the Administration's latest progress in implementing the recommendations of LRC, to the AJLS Panel for its meeting scheduled for 22 June 2020.
